

BULGARIANS SWEEP AROUND THE TURKS TO ENCIRCLE CITY

ANCIENT CAPITAL OF TURKEY IS NOW ALMOST COMPLETELY ENCOMPASSED BY HOSTILE ARMIES.

TURKS FIGHT BRAVELY

Servian and Greeks Marching Onward To Unite Into One Vast Army Against The Ottoman Foe.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] London, Oct. 28.—Accomplishing one of the greatest strokes in the campaign in northwestern Turkey in Europe, Bulgarian forces are believed to have cut the railroad to Adrianople, isolating that Turkish stronghold.

A Turkish military train enroute from Constantinople to the besieged city, was captured by the invaders, according to a dispatch from Sofia.

Meanwhile, the Bulgarian armies are executing a sweeping movement which reaches almost to the Black Sea and still other Bulgarian columns are completing the movement to completely surround Adrianople.

The Bulgarian officials assert that the fate of Adrianople practically is sealed and the surrender of the city is a question of but a little time.

Despite the perils of the situation and the swiftness of the Bulgarians' movements and the fierceness of their attacks, the Turks have not lost hope, nor have they hesitated an instant in their forced march to the relief of the beleaguered city within the ancient walls.

Three strong Turkish columns are moving rapidly northward. These are said to be supported by troops being conveyed by transports on the Black Sea under naval convoy. The Turkish commander in chief shortly is expected to assume the offensive in the campaign.

Besides its other activities the Bulgarian army is pushing forward from the mountains to the east of Kirk-Kilisseh hoping to be able to annihilate the Ottoman forces recently defeated there. A dispatch from Constantinople says that the Turks have re-captured Marasa. In view of the big events in the eastern region of the theatre of war the achievements of the Servian army have been somewhat lost sight of.

The Servians from whom Europe did not expect much, are now in possession of virtually the whole of old Serbia and in conjunction with the Montenegrans hold the best part of the district of Novipazar.

The Greek plan clearly is to effect a junction of the Greek armies and then march on Salonika. The Greek crown prince's army is now within striking distance of that fortress.

More Towns Surrender.

Belgrade, Serbia, Oct. 28.—The Servian troops have taken the town of Mitrovitza on the railroad of the north of Uskup and Verisovitz also has fallen into their hands according to a dispatch from the Servian base at the frontier.

Fifteen quick firing cannon, 4,000 rifles and a mass of ammunition were abandoned by the Turkish troops during their retreat. All the neighboring small towns also are surrendering to the Servians.

AGED MAN BRINGS ALIENATION SUIT

Manitowoc Man Seventy, Sues Oconto County Man for Loss of Wife's Affection.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Manitowoc, Wis., Oct. 28.—Julius Shortum, a former Green Bay man, aged 70, is plaintiff in a $10,000 damage suit against O. Piper, one time resident of Oconto, now in Oconto county, proceedings in which were instituted her this morning with the discovery statute examination examination petitioned for by the defendant. Shortum charges Piper with the alienation of his wife's affections and with being instrumental in inducing Mrs. Shortum to institute divorce proceedings.

TAFT RESUMES WORK AT CAPITAL TODAY

President Took up Today Accumulation of Affairs Awaiting His Return From Vacation.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Washington, Oct. 28.—President Taft today took up the accumulation of state affairs awaiting his return from his summer vacation. Secretary Knox was his first caller, coming to discuss Great Britain's protest against the Panama canal bill, and the situation in Cuba, and the Dominican republic and Mexico.

The president and Secretary Knox discussed the campaign and it was decided the secretary would make several speeches during the week.

NO LONGER EXPECTS TO GET NEW TRIAL

Former Police Lieutenant Charles Becker Hopeless of Successful Appeal to Court.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] New York, Oct. 28.—"I am no longer optimistic that my lawyers will get me a new trial. I might say that I am hopeless of a successful appeal." With these words former police lieutenant Charles Becker, in his cell today again lamented the fact that he failed to take the stand at the trial on which he was condemned to the electric chair for the murder of Herman Rosenthal. He repeated his statement that he had no connection with the murder and charged that the informers, Rose, Vallon and Weber not only engineered the crime but had planned to murder another gambler. The plot had miscarried, he said.

He had taught Indians to read and write and he has long been known as a sportsman's guide and friend, interceding between the white hunters and the Indians in hostile days.

VICE PRESIDENT IS VERY ILL IN UTICA

Alarming Rumors Concerning Condition of James S. Sherman, However, Are Denied By Physician.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 28.—Alarming rumors regarding the condition of Vice President Sherman influenced his physician, Dr. F. N. Peck, to issue the following bulletin today:

"Vice President Sherman is a very ill man although the reports in circulation during the night were greatly exaggerated. Mr. Sherman was sitting up yesterday and he walked about the house from room to room. His condition is bad, it is true, but I do not apprehend any immediate crisis."

Close friends of Mr. Sherman admit that he has had sinking spells at different times during the summer. It is stated today he was slightly improved, but Dr. Peck nevertheless, was in frequent telephone consultation with Dr. Theodore C. Janeway, of New York. The vice president realizes the precarious nature of his illness and some time ago agreed not to undertake any campaign work or other duties that would tax his strength.

FEAR TROUBLE OVER ELECTIONS IN CUBA

Rival Candidates Will Hold No More Mass Meetings, But Trouble Is Expected After Election.

Washington, Oct. 28.—Officials here welcomed the announcement from Havana that the leaders of the two political factions have undertaken to abandon their pre-election mass meetings which already have resulted in several serious collisions, but the impression prevails here that the danger of an outbreak on a large scale merely has been postponed and that unless there is a decided change in the attitude of the leaders on both sides the real trouble may be expected after election day, next Friday. A drastic restriction of the registration lists which would exclude a large proportion of the Zayista or liberal element may operate to turn the tide in favor of the conservatives or Menacool party and therein officials here believe lies the real danger, for then the Zayista will break into riot if the election judges undertake to draw the lines against them. The subject of possible intervention in Cuba should conditions demand, is expected to come up for discussion at the cabinet meeting tomorrow.

JOHNSON IN MAINE PLANS A BUSY WEEK

Portland, Me., Oct. 28.—Gov. Johnson today began the tenth week of his campaign and incidentally made his initial speech in this state. Other addresses have been scheduled for the governor which will keep him busy up to election day. His address today was at Biddeford. He planned to return here from Biddeford, give a short outdoor talk and then take a special train for a series of speeches in Lewiston, Brunswick, Augusta, Waukeville, Newport and Bangor. The Bangor meeting was arranged for tonight.

TRIPLE MURDER AT PLYMOUTH SUNDAY

Enraged Man Shot Down Members of His Wife's Family And Then Hung Himself in the Woods.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Sheboygan, Oct. 28.—Last night just before 6 o'clock a triple murder was committed near Plymouth, Wis., a short distance from here when Phillip J. Ott, aged 45, his wife, Mrs. Ott, aged 42, and her father, Fred Hunt, aged 80, were shot and instantly killed by Alvin Roehr, aged 33 son-in-law of Phillip Ott. Roehr's body was found this afternoon hanging to a tree in the woods about a quarter of a mile from the scene of the tragedy. It is supposed that the assassin, fearing summary action at the hands of a posse following the triple shooting, secured a rope and hurrying to the woods a short distance away committed suicide by hanging. About a year and a half ago Roehr married Ott's daughter. They did not get along peacefully and Mrs. Roehr sometime ago took her six months old baby and went to her father's house just across the road. She then started suit for divorce.

Roehr started suit for the recovery of his child, but failed. Late yesterday afternoon he went across the road to his father-in-law's house and demanded to see his wife. The grandfather answered the door, but refused to let him in. Roehr then went back to his home, but returned in ten minutes with a shot gun, and as the grandfather went to the dairy shed Roehr shot and killed him instantly. Mr. Ott and his wife came out of the door and Roehr shot them, both shots entering the breasts and killing them instantly. Then he entered the house in search of his wife, she had heard him and had taken her baby and hidden in a chimney cupboard where she stayed for over three hours. Shortly after nine she slipped out and gave the alarm to neighbors. The only witness to the triple crime was the four year old adopted son of Mr. Ott who was at the time in the shed. Thinking the entire family had been killed he went upstairs and hid in bed where he was found by a physician. Roehr's father committed suicide about five years ago and it is believed there is a little trace of insanity in the family. Ott was one of the most prominent farmers and stock raisers in this county.

CLUB OWNERS OF CENTRAL LEAGUE TO HAVE MEETING

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Ft. Wayne, Ind., Oct. 28.—Club owners of the Central League of baseball clubs rounded up here today for their annual meeting. Much important business is slated for transaction. From a financial viewpoint the past season was not a very successful one for the league and it is regarded as likely that the welfare circuit may be cut to eight clubs before next spring. Dr. F. R. Carson of South Bend, who has been at the head of the league for many years, is to retire from the presidency. Louis Hollbrunner of this city probably will be named to succeed him.

RESIGNS POSITION AS BANK DIRECTOR

Republican Elector at Madison Wants To Be Free to Vote For President Taft.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis., Oct. 28.—Instead of resigning as a nominee for presidential elector because he could not support President Taft, as other Republicans in Wisconsin have done, Sol. Levitan, a prominent Jewish citizen of this city, today resigned as a director of a national bank that he might remain loyal to his trust and vote for Taft. He said he preferred to put the welfare of party above personal considerations. He is known as an earnest worker in the La Follette movement in this state.

Mr. Levitan's letter of resignation, addressed to A. F. Menges, president of the Commercial National Bank of Madison, follows:

"Having been duly selected as a candidate for presidential elector of the Republican party in Wisconsin, and there being some question as to my right to cast my vote, as such should I be elected, due to the fact that I am a director in a national bank, I hereby tender my resignation as a director in the Commercial National Bank, this city, and request that it be immediately accepted. I need hardly say that I take this step with regret but that the above complication has made it necessary for me to choose between personal advantage and what I feel to be one of the highest duties of citizenship. Very truly yours, Sol. Levitan."

Mr. Levitan explained in an interview that the nation is exceedingly prosperous, that the people have not been embarrassed by the stagnated conditions of 1894, and that he is confident that "swapping horses in the middle of the stream" is bad public policy.

"As long as Wisconsin Republicans chose me as a presidential elector," he said, "I feel that I owe more to them and the party than I do to the advancement of my personal fortunes. From the standpoint of a Republican, I believe that President Taft, as the Republican standard-bearer should be re-elected. His nomination has been decided by the highest authority in the party organization, and I feel in duty bound to obey its decision."

"I believe the forward movement should and can be carried on best within the party. The development of new ideas and methods now known as Progressivism has been within the Republican party, where they were originated by our Senator, La Follette. It is not right that Roosevelt should try to destroy the party that made him, and to which he owes his many public honors. The Republican party made Roosevelt, but Roosevelt has not made the Republican party. He steadily opposed La Follette when Mr. La Follette was doing so much to bring about the much-needed reforms, and cannot be considered a sincere leader in the progressive movement."

"The Republicans have carried us through to our present prosperity; our business conditions have been improved, our banks are sound, and altogether the nation was never in a more prosperous and satisfied condition. By giving President Taft another term, he will have opportunity to profit by the lessons of the first and by the experience of the present campaign."

Mr. Levitan has been a leading merchant with stores in New Glarus, Blanchardville and Madison. He was a delegate to each of the Republican state conventions which nominated La Follette for governor.

COLORED MAN DREW THREE YEARS IN STATE PRISON

Gardner Hurd Pleads Guilty to Seducing Fifteen Year Old Doris Jones and is Sentenced to Waupun by Court This Morning.

Waiving preliminary examination and pleading guilty to enticing fifteen year old Doris Jones of Edgerton, away from home, for immoral purposes, Gardner Hurd, also colored and aged thirty-five, was this morning sentenced to three years in state prison by Judge Fifield. Hurd and the Jones girl disappeared from Edgerton Friday last and when Hurd returned Saturday morning with a rig he had hired, the girl was missing. Fearing that the child had been outraged and perhaps murdered Marshal Dunn of Edgerton, placed Hurd in custody and later brought him to Janesville for a safe keeping, while a search for the girl was made.

Hurd told the officers that he had left the girl within a few blocks of his home Friday night but his tale was not believed. After Hurd had been brought to Janesville Saturday evening, Cyrus Craylin and Matthew Williams, both colored went to Hurd's room to see if any trace of the girl could be found and discovered her there, lying in bed, dressed in one of Hurd's suits. Her father was at once notified and he reported the discovery to the authorities.

Through some error it was reported in Janesville the girl's body had been found near the roadside three miles from Edgerton, and excitement ran high here all day Sunday. The girl was closely questioned by Sheriff Ransom and District Attorney Dunwiddie and confessed that she ran away from school Friday morning and had spent all that day in the woods, meeting Hurd in the evening at a roadhouse south of Edgerton, and driving "to Janesville with him."

The girl admitted her relationship with Hurd and confessed to the whole story. She did not appear against the negro, who admitted his part of the affair and asked to be allowed to plead guilty and receive his sentence. He had worked in Edgerton but a short time coming there from Delavan and previous to that making his home in Chicago, where he had a wife, whom he deserted four years ago.

TWO ADDRESSES ON THURSDAY EVENING ALREADY SCHEDULED

P. J. Martin of Green Bay to Speak For Democracy and McGovern Under the Auspices of the Bull Moose.

Thursday promises to be a night for politicians in Janesville. With arrangements completed for the address of Hon. P. J. Martin of Green Bay, under the auspices of the democratic county committee and Gov. McGovern's appearance here on the same evening as scheduled by Harry L. Maxfield of the Bull Moose party, there will be something doing. Originally McGovern was to have appeared under the auspices of the county committee but it appears the Bull Moose got ahead of them and the governor will talk probably on his own candidacy, for the rest of the republican ticket and may perhaps say something for Roosevelt. It will be take your choice if present plans are carried out and lots of excitement.

KAREL IN NORTHERN PART OF THE STATE

Democrat Candidate For Governor Spoke Today in Ashland and Bayfield Counties.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Ashland, Oct. 28.—Judge Karel of Milwaukee, after an all night journey spent today in Ashland and Bayfield counties. He addressed the employees of the Dupont Dynamite Works, and shortly afterwards he addressed the men at the Stearns Lumber Mills, both plants being closed for the occasion. Although this is a republican stronghold there appears to be considerable Karel sentiment, many republicans having declared themselves for the democratic nominee.

ILLNESS OF JUROR DELAYS ETTOR CASE

Trial of Men Held for Murder of Girl During Lawrence Labor Troubles is Postponed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Salem, Mass., Oct. 28.—Because of the continued illness of Juror John N. Carter, the trial of J. J. Ettore, Arturo Giovannitti and Joseph Caruso, for the alleged murder of Anna Lopizzo during a strike riot last January, was postponed today until Wednesday. Carter, who was taken sick with grippe Friday night was reported to be improved, but his physicians advised that he remain in his room two days more at least.

LA FOLLETTE SPOKE AT OSHKOSH TODAY

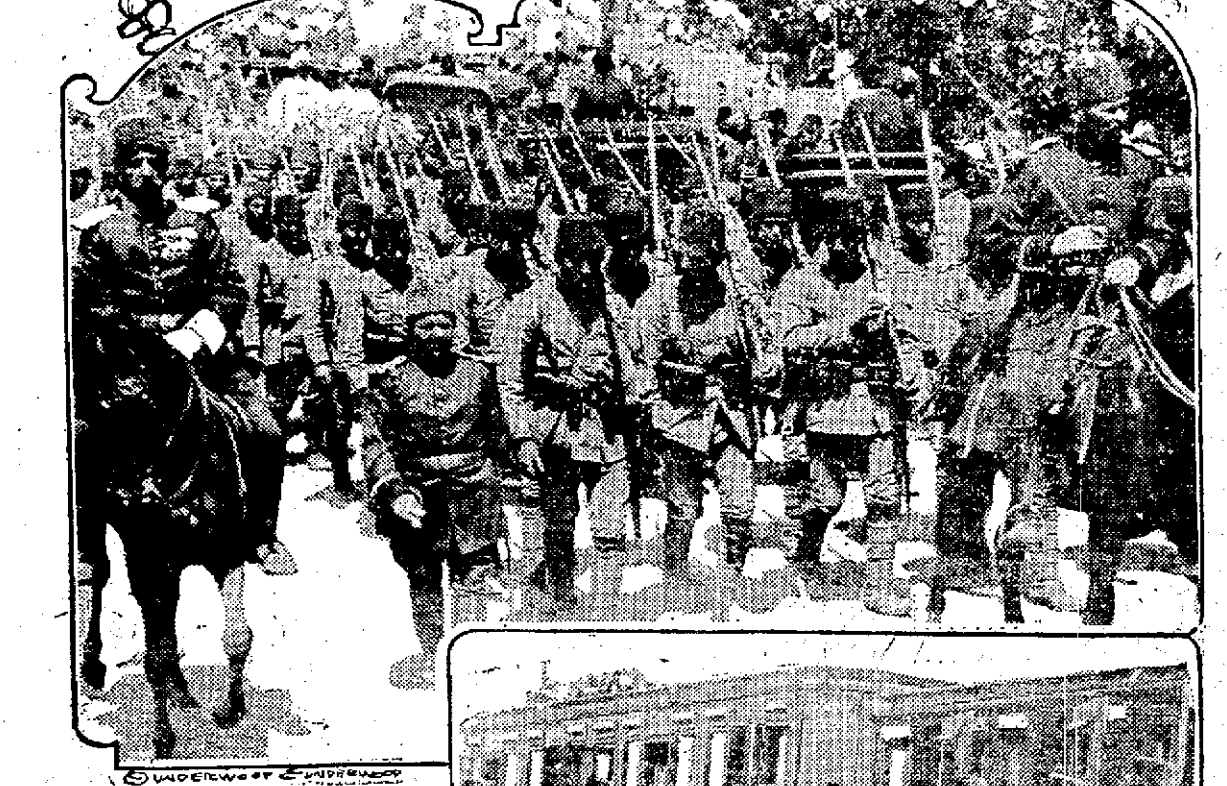

Senator's Address Was Preceded by Suffrage Speech Given by Mrs. La Follette.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Oshkosh, Oct. 28.—United States Senator Robert La Follette gave a sort of continuous performance this morning at the Grand Opera house in his speech he was scheduled to deliver. He came here about 11 o'clock last night and this morning Mrs. La Follette opened the program about 9:30 with an address in favor of woman's suffrage. She spoke about an hour and was then followed by the Senator. His address in the main was chiefly a vigorous defense of the income tax law in the state of Wisconsin. He also spoke early in his speech in favor of woman's suffrage.

RAPID GROWTH OF FUND GIVEN TO THE UNIVERSITY

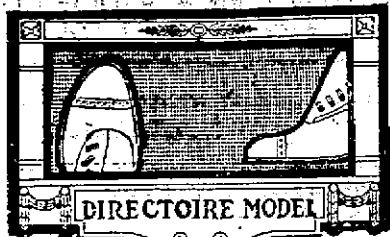

Madison, Wisconsin, October 28.—The John A. Johnson endowment fund of $5,000 for the benefit of needy students at the University of Wisconsin, established in 1875, has grown by yearly increments to $3,048.38 in 1912. M. D. McCaffrey, secretary of the board of regents, stated that at the end of the fiscal year 1915 the principal of the fund will amount to more than twice the amount of the original donation, and will, of course, continue to increase rapidly.

MRS. LA FOLLETTE TALKS ON SUFFRAGE PRECEDING SENATOR

COUNTY REPUBLICANS HAVE SURPRISE SPRUNG AT GATHERING LAST SATURDAY EVENING.

URGES FOR M'GOVERN

Senator Reiterates His Position on National Politics And Asks For Karel's Defeat—Endorses Local Candidates.

Probably for the first time in the political history of the state of Wisconsin a woman addressed a republican gathering Saturday evening last, when Mrs. Robert M. La Follette gave a fifteen minute opening speech in favor of woman's suffrage at the meeting at Myers theatre.

A wave of surprised silence swept over the audience when County Chairman Starr stepped to the front of the stage and announced that as the senator had been detained for a few minutes, Mrs. La Follette, who was present, would speak for woman's suffrage.

It is a well known fact that Mrs. La Follette has been touring the state in the interest of the suffrage cause but this was the first time that she and her husband addressed a republican meeting together and many republicans were at a loss to know just what to think of the procedure.

Mrs. La Follette gave a matter of fact address in favor of votes for women analyzing the situation in Wisconsin and presenting a large number of facts within the short time allowed her to speak. She declared that the Wisconsin voters had not been aroused to the importance of the issue. Everywhere throughout the state she had met the same attitude of "good-natured indifference" which says: "Let the women vote if they want to, but we don't think they want to."

The women could hardly be blamed for their indifference, Mrs. La Follette said, and she emphasized the fact that universal manhood suffrage was secured not through any general demand of the male population but through the persistent effort of a few. She pointed to the fact that in the states where women vote they hold their own with men as far as the percentage voting is concerned.

Mrs. La Follette was roundly applauded when she retired from the stage. She confined her remarks to fifteen minutes and ended her address as soon as the senator appeared, for she said, she knew that the audience had gathered to hear what he had to say.

Senator La Follette received an ovation when he stepped forward after a brief introduction by Mr. Starr. He smiled and smiled at the vast sea of faces. Every seat in the auditorium was taken and the stage was well filled. The doors of the theatre were closed as it was impossible to allow a larger number standing room.

For two hours and a half the senator held his audience's attention. He spoke with his usual oratorical emphasis although it was plain that he was somewhat fatigued from his long political tour of the state. He spent a large portion of his address in dealing with the condition of national affairs, especially the power which the "interests" and corporations have over governmental affairs. He found time, however, to touch pertinently upon the state issues and to urge for the defeat of Judge Karel at the polls next week.

"At the outset," he said at the beginning of his address, "I am glad to be in Janesville, because a fight is on in Wisconsin somewhat like that of 1902. There is a coalition of stalwart republicans and conservative democrats, of the bad elements in both parties, to secure the defeat of the progressive principles for which Wisconsin has become famous."

"I appeal to the progressive democrats of Rock county as well as the republicans to rally to the republican standard in this campaign. I want to see Rock county send a man to the senate who will help to preserve this progressive government, and I tell you that Lawrence Cunningham of Beloit will be as true to the progressive cause as it is possible for any human being to be."

"And I hope you will send to the assembly Judge Rosa in the second district of the county and Marshall Richardson in the first. Every member of the Richardson family, and Judge Rosa and Lawrence Cunningham had their coats off in this progressive movement as soon as I did."

The senator then proceeded to his exposition of the enthrallment of the United States and its government to the "big business interests." He went into the subject minutely to show how this had been possible. The protective tariff had been a help but he did not condemn that; it was the elimination of internal competition and the formation of "trusts" that has worked the havoc.

He severely blamed Theodore Roosevelt for not having coped with this problem in the seven years he sat in the presidential chair. When he took the oath of office there were 149 combinations and when he left the presidency there were 10,020 corporations existing in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law. The senator recalled with intense fervor the passage of the Sherman law and he paid a great tribute to senator John

Sherman for his wonderful political foresight.

He compared the domination of the "interests" to the growth of a cancer in the human body. It would require a political surgeon of extreme sagacity and skill to cut out the deadly growth; it was no job for a Bull Moose; nor for a big amiable fat man. Neither was it a job for the democratic party although he did not mention Gov. Wilson's name. His reason for the democratic party's inability to handle the situation was the composition of the southern democracy which was founded on aristocratic traditions without a single iota of progressive-ism.

Senator La Follette went into President Taft's attitude on the tariff question. He recalled how Taft had promised him and how he had emphasized in his 1908 campaign that the great thing to be done was to revise the tariff downward. Then the senator reviewed to some length the session of congress which enacted the Payne-Aldrich bill. He criticized the president for failure to send a message to congress demanding the amendments in the bill as it left the house so that it would conform to the republican platform promises.

In treating of "Mr. Roosevelt's performances," as he called them, he declared that Roosevelt was in no sense a progressive. He charged him with attempting to steal the nomination at Chicago and to force on the republican party his set of "spurious, illegal delegates." La Follette foresaw the country's salvation not in a bolting to the Bull Moose movement but in the republican party which, he predicted, would be in the control of the progressives four years hence.

With a long exposition of the nation's political situation the senator was forced to hurry his treatment of state issues. With the train which was to take him and Mrs. La Follette to Madison due within twenty minutes he hastened to read the record of Judge Karel in the Wisconsin legislature and exhort progressive democrats as well as republicans to support McGOVERN.

The senator failed to mention the income tax and only touched upon the cost of conducting the state government. In regard to the state's debts, it does cost something to run our state government, with all the corporations delving down to secure control. We've got to meet export with expert in this fight and this costs money." He touched upon several of the commissions and what they had done. Among these were the railroad commission, the dairy and food commission, and the industrial commission which although just organized promised great things in the amelioration of conditions between capital and labor in the state, he said.

Reading Karel's record in the last few minutes of his talk, he pointed to his opposition to the establishment of the railroad commission, to the passage of the anti-pass laws, to the direct primary, to the taxation of railroads, steam and electric, in the state, to the municipal ownership law, and other measures. "The worst man to represent them in this campaign," he charged.

"You may criticize the action of McGOVERN in matters outside of the state," said the senator, in reference to the governor's apostasy at Chicago, "and you may find fault with him for violating the instructions of the Wisconsin voters in that instance, but inside the state he is committed to the progressive principles for which we have fought and which he has not yet abandoned. He is the only man who stands for the onward movement in this campaign and you should not strike him down to put in a man like Karel who has always been arrayed on the reactionary side."

Senator La Follette spent yesterday at his home in Madison. He will continue his campaign work through the present week opening with an address at Oshkosh tonight.

Owing to the trouble on the way from Delavan to Beloit by auto Saturday afternoon, Senator La Follette did not speak in Beloit. He arrived there in time for dinner at the Hilton house with a number of county republicans. He then came to Janesville for his evening engagement. Mr. Starr stated today that the senator would give an address at Beloit before the campaign closes.

IDEAL WEATHER BROUGHT MANY AUTOISTS TO CITY

Large Number of Parties of Tourists Visited This City on Sunday in Their Machines.

With cold weather approaching and the prospects of fine weather limited, many automobilists took advantage of the splendid day yesterday, and a large number of tourists visited this city in their cars, some making Janesville their destination, while others passed through here to other cities. In one party alone, from Rockford, there were fourteen, four automobiles being necessary to convey them here. They were registered at the Hotel Myers as the guests of E. R. Reitsch. Other parties at the same hostelry included Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Culton and daughters, Lucile and Kathleen, and Mrs. G. W. Blanchard of Edgerton; and Mrs. W. D. Williams of Onahwa and Mrs. E. A. Clark of Rockford. At the Grand hotel were: Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Blake and children and Judge and Mrs. A. L. Sanborn of Madison; James Clarke and party of four; Beloit; and the Grand on Saturday were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ham and daughter and H. E. Harrison of Footville.

TRAINMEN ARE PREPARING FOR THEIR ANNUAL BALL

Invitations Have Been Mailed by Rock River Lodge No. 210, B. of R. T. Party Nov. 27.

Preparations are being made by the Rock River Lodge No. 210, Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen for their annual dance to be given at Assembly hall on Wednesday evening, Nov. 27. Invitations are now being mailed to the members and their friends. The George L. Hatch orchestra will furnish the music. The arrangement committee is composed of D. P. Davey, J. J. Dulin and D. J. Barry. The reception committee contains all the members of the Rock county lodge, and the floor committee consists of George Barry, C. J. Heaghen, H. J. Behrendt, T. W. Murphy, Jos. Dempsey, John Behrendt and F. J. Dixon.

SUFFRAGE IS GIVEN OVATION AT BELOIT

Expression of Voters Secured at La Follette Meeting Saturday—Oathr Suffrage News.

Rock County suffragists spent last week in going through the county visiting the local suffrage clubs, leaving literature at farmhouses and country schools and holding some meetings. Two interesting events were the endorsement of the measure in Evansville and Beloit.

At a regular meeting of the Afternoon Club at Evansville a vote was taken on the suffrage question which resulted in a majority of twenty-six to one in favor of suffrage.

At the La Follette meeting at Beloit Saturday many suffragists were present for a suffrage conference was to take place at the same place after the rally. When Senator La Follette failed to put in an appearance Mrs. La Follette took up the time with a rousing suffrage speech. Following it she requested that the audience ask questions. One man shouted "We are all in favor of it" and another said "Take a standing vote!" Judge Rosa, the chairman of the meeting gave his permission and at Mrs. La Follette's request all who were going to vote for the amendment stood. About five hundred of the six hundred men present rose amid great enthusiasm. The whole affair was most impromptu, and the fact that the suffrage talk held the audience and called forth frequent applause perhaps the most unexpected of all, for woman suffrage is a non-partisan issue.

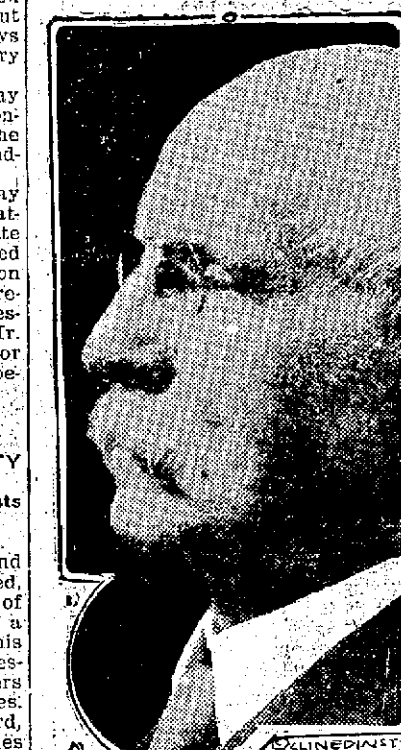

The Political Equality League meets in regular session at Library hall this afternoon. The rest of the week will be given up to canvassing and visiting Clinton, Avalon and other parts of the county. The last meeting of the League before election will take place at the residence of Mrs. Archie Ried next Monday afternoon.

CAR COLLIDED WITH A TREE NEAR ROAD

Explosion of Tire Caused Arthur Hager to Lose Control of Machine—He Was Driving.

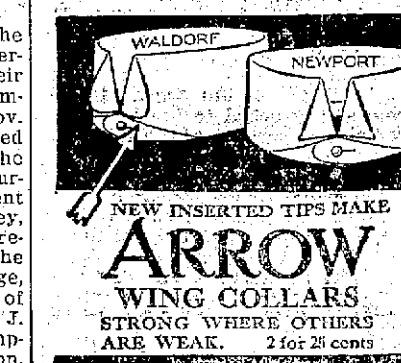

While racing with Grover Horn on the Prairie road east of the city last night, Arthur Hager, employed at the Robert Buggs Garage, lost control of the automobile he was driving and the machine collided with a tree, throwing out the driver. Hager was bruised about the back. The front part of the machine was damaged. The accident occurred about three miles from the city, beyond the sugar beet factory, and was caused by the explosion of a front tire on the machine. The explosion caused the wheels to wobble and the machine went down an embankment of six or eight feet before it struck the tree. Mr. Hager prepared for the shock and although he was thrown a considerable distance, his injuries are not severe. The front axle of the automobile was bent, the radiator damaged, and the steering gear put out of commission, but repairs were made today, and the car was driven into the city late this afternoon. A suitcase of tools on the back of the machine was broken open when the tree was struck and the tools scattered on the road.

Roy Mead.
Last services for Roy Mead, the well known locomotive engineer in the employ of the St. Paul railway, were held at the home, 546 Pearl street, at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The Rev. J. W. Laughlin, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, officiated. All the pall-bearers were members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers of which Mr. Mead was a member. Interment was made in Oak Hill cemetery.

SAY DOMINICANS MUST CLEAN HOUSE

Brigadier General McIntyre.

Washington, Oct.—Brigadier General McIntyre of the bureau of Insular Affairs, and W. T. S. Doyle of the state department, American special commissioners who have gone to Santo Domingo to help that unfortunate republic straighten out its affairs, report that they have found conditions in the island most deplorable. They have practically taken over the entire administration of Dominican government affairs.

The commissioners are asking the Dominican government to eliminate officials responsible for the administration of public funds in various parts of the republic and other forms of dishonesty.

They are also understood to be insisting that the government clean house promptly and thoroughly. They are demanding that the custom houses be re-established, and 750 American marines are being held in readiness to assist in this task should guards be necessary.

Meantime business and industry in the republic are said to be stagnated.

SECOND OF THE FINE ENTERTAINMENTS AT CHRIST PARISH HALL, NOV. 5th.

"We are delighted, would not miss the next two for anything; expected a good concert but were given an exquisite artistic treat." Such was the verdict of those who attended the first of the series.

The program for the Second of the series will be given by Miss Dorothy White, pianist; Miss A. Elise Smith, soprano and violinist; Miss Jane Hardy, reader.

The Rose Song with five little local girls dressed as Rose Maidens is beautiful and will please both old and young.

Miss Hardy will give dramatic and humorous readings. She is said to sway her audience at will.

Miss White has fine ability and always pleases.

Tickets for the two concerts will be sold for 75c. Single tickets, 50c. Children, 25c, at Peoples' Drug Store, McCue & Busch, J. P. Baker & Son, and at the door.

30 days later pay us another 75 cents and 30 days later pay us the last 75 cents—
$2.25 in all.

The New Gas Light Company stands back of every light sold, and unless we were sure that the Home Light is all that it is represented to be we would not give a three months' guarantee against breakage of globe, mantle or chimney.

Examine the Home Light; see the aluminum lining; the extra durable lacquer finish; the new arrangement for holding the glassware; the quality and the new shape of the globe; the self-lighting attachment; the famous Reflex mantle. Surely it is the best Light obtainable.

If a Home Light man has not called at your home he will before the campaign is over. If you do not care to wait, notify us and we will fill your order promptly.

MRS. WORRY.

BY C. A. VOIGHT.

Gloom is thick among the University of Pennsylvania football fans. The team continues to slump, and the coaches and players are discouraged. The opinion of many is that the men are overtrained though this hardly seems possible.

Willie Hoppe, the billiard champion, showed "great form" with the one recently in a practice game with J. P. Fossberg at New York. It took Hoppe only four innings to run off 400 points at the 18.2 inch style. This gave Willie an average of 100.

The New York state athletic commission is making an effort which probably will be successful, to establish an international standard of weights to govern championship bouts. The authorities governing boxing in England, France and Australia have been asked to approve the following scale:

Former Manager Frank Chance of the Chicago Cubs cherishes no ill feeling against Johnny Evers, the man whom President Murphy has selected to succeed him. "I wish he believes that he would be the Johnny all the luck in the world," says Chance. "I hope he can make a success of it."

When the Liner Minnewaska sailed from Jersey City on October 26 she had on board the highest priced stallion in the world, Rock Sand. The horse, which has been stabled at Lexington, Ky., was recently purchased from August Belmont for $150,000 by a syndicate of Paris turfmen.

As the result of experience gained by the American fencers who competed in the Olympic games at Stockholm this summer, American fencing rules are to be revised so as to correspond closely with the European code.

Organized baseball gets a real planning in the November Metropolitan magazine. "The Baseball Trust" is the title of the story, and the writer slaps President Ban Johnson of the American League, President Tom Lynch of the National and Garry Herrmann, president of the Cincinnati Reds.

The editor of the Metropolitan informs his readers that "This amazing disclosure is written by a man who has a good many thousand dollars invested in the national game. Therefore it would be unwise for his name to be attached to this article. If he were known, he would be the subject of severe reprisals that might seriously affect his business."

In his palmist days Coach Yost never had a scoring machine that could role up points faster than this year's eleven of the Muskegon, Mich., high school. The Muskegon team has made four points for every minute of play this season and has met only teams supposedly in its own class. It beat the Hastings, Mich., high school eleven by a score of 216-0.

THREE CUSHION BILLIARD LEAGUE OPENS SEASON.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Pittsburgh, Pa., Oct. 28.—The National Three-Cushion Billiard League, organized last year, opens its second season tonight with contests between Boston and Pittsburgh players in this city.

The league circuit comprises New York, Brooklyn, Boston and Philadelphia, in the East, and Pittsburgh, Chicago, St. Louis and Kansas City, in the West. The schedule for three games every two weeks in each city, the season to close the second week in April. Last year only amateur players were allowed to compete, but this year it has been decided to admit the professionals and it is expected that such stars as DeOro, Anson, Kling and others will take part.

LEAVES JANESVILLE STILL IN RUNNING

Victory of Saturday Put Local Team In Class With Madison and Fort Atkinson Eleven.

Scores are being received from all over the state in regard to high school games which will lead to the diminishing of the several teams leaving a few to battle for the state championship in the near future. Janesville defeated Jefferson by a 11-0 score, which eliminated Jefferson from any honors. Last Saturday, Jefferson defeated Waukesha by a 13 to 6 score. The locals have a game with Waukesha on November 23 here, and if they defeat the Spring City boys, they have a good chance for high honors. Deloit defeated Edgerton, 51 to 7 last Saturday. Madison and Fort Atkinson both won by large scores and are still in the running, although Fort Atkinson is not taken on as a real contender.

EXTENDED TIME OF GAME CLAIMS DEFEATED TEAM

Members of the second ward football team captained by George Ward claim that the "timekeeper" in the game played with the Finer team on Sunday extended the time of the last half of the game so that Finer's eleven won the game by the score of 7-10. The second ward boys held their opponents' scoreless and say the game should have been a tie.

ADAMS SCHOOL ELEVEN BEATS SECOND WARD STARS

There seems to be some mistake in the score of the game played at the Fair Grounds Saturday between the Adams school and the Second Ward Stars. The latter which was mostly made up of high school boys, was much the heavier. The touch-down made by Miller could not be accepted as he was not on the lineup of the Stars and retired when the Adams school team opposed. This leaves the score 8 to 6 in the Adams school's favor.

HUGGINS MAY LAND BRESNAHAN'S JOB

Miller Huggins.

That Miller Huggins, veteran second sacker, will be leader of the St. Louis Cardinals next year is the general belief of St. Louis fans. Huggins is a prime favorite with Mrs. Britton, owner of the club, and it is believed that she has him in mind for the managerial job when she "fired" Roger Bresnahan. Bresnahan, whose contract with the Cardinals has four years to run, is not tamely submitting to the treatment he is receiving at Mrs. Britton's hands. "I am ready to fight for my rights and will go into any court they want me to," he declares.

Materials for Gas Making.

In the United Kingdom 17,000,000 tons of coal and 60,000,000 gallons of oil are used annually in gas making.

Somewhat Mixed.
The process by which the cognomen of the Saxon saint who converted the Germans came to be the traditional literary designation of an innkeeper is singular if true. Boniface, we are told, was anglicized as Bonny face. By a confusion almost as ludicrous St. Martin of Tours has become the patron of innkeepers, so that the hagiology of the trade seems rather mixed.

Look Out, Boys!

A German professor has found that a boy in walking a mile through the streets of a town is exposed to 10,000,000 germs and microbes that may cause his death, but the only safe way for a boy to do is to remain at home and take out the ashes and bring in the coal. If he feels any danger he can black the cookstove and whitewash the cellar.

Gauging Strength of Structure.

In the building of theater galleries and grandstands the supporting strength of the structure has to be carefully worked out. This is done by multiplying the area in square feet by the pressure which it is estimated a crowd exerts to the square foot, and making the supports proportionately strong.

Boycotted the Doctors.

Something "hot" in the line of a strike or boycott was recently reported from a small town in Burgundy. The physicians of the place raised their rates 50 per cent, and a mass meeting of all the ailing folks was called, at which it was decided to dispense with the medical men's services and trust to luck to get well.

What Puzzled Him.

"What are you puzzling about?" "I'm writing a sketch for vaudeville on the current political situation." "Well, you ought to have plenty of good stuff to put in." "That isn't what puzzles me. I've got so much good stuff I don't know what to leave out."

THE TRUTH IN A NUTSHELL.

If Woodrow Wilson is elected—and it will be either Taft or Wilson, for Roosevelt cannot possibly be chosen—every manufacturer and business man will know on the morning of November 6 that the tariff will be radically changed.

There will then ensue many months of anxious waiting, during which time business men will curtail their working force and husband their resources against the blow that is sure to fall. When the new tariff law is enacted, orders will be abroad for immense quantities of goods. The withdrawal of orders from American factories will cause every plant to shut down, force millions of men into idleness and line the side tracks with empty cars.

In order to pay the bills of the foreign manufacturers, millions of dollars of American gold will have to be sent abroad. This will deplete the bank reserves, with consequent calling of loans and the sacrificing of securities in order to raise ready money. This means commercial and financial panic.

The prosperity of 1892 faded away in less than two years of democratic administration under the Wilson tariff law. The prosperity of 1912, the climax of 16 years of republican administration, will also speedily disappear if the democratic party comes into power.

This terse forecast, sent out by the Republican National committee, may cause a smile on the faces of some of the men of the younger generation, because the history of a panic is never very interesting reading, and they know nothing about the ordeal by experience. But plenty of men are living today, who were in business in 1893. Ask them about it and see how they propose to vote.

The spell-binders who travel over the country advocating a change, are not business men, and the writers who discuss so glibly the claims of the "outs" whose consuming ambition is to get in, couldn't tell the difference between a tax receipt and a gas bill.

When Cleveland was elected in 1892 the national fleet was under full sail, and the only sign of a storm was an ominous foreboding, but in less than six months every craft was tied up in the harbor, and the crews scattered to the four winds.

Retrenchment all along the line was gradual but steady, and the final culmination was stagnation and destitution. Is it surprising today, that men who passed through these experiences are opposed to taking any chances?

The democratic party is as much a free trade party today as it was in 1893, and the business world is so confident of what will happen, if the party gains control, that it is a unit in opposition.

A couple of boys from Illinois were in the office yesterday. They will cast their first vote this year, and had decided to support Wilson. When reminded of the danger which might ensue they said, "Oh, well, we boys have to learn by experience." That's the only argument and it's very flimsy, for experience is usually a hard teacher, and a little observation would save many bitter lessons.

The people can ill-afford the experience of 1893, and they can avoid them by the exercise of a little common sense.

SUGAR BEET CULTURE.

So much has been said about exhausting the soil by the culture of sugar beets that the government decided to make a careful investigation, and so Truman G. Palmer of the department of agriculture was sent to Germany to study conditions.

The German farmers told him that they had long since discovered that beets were a benefit rather than a detriment to the soil, but unlike the American farmer, they rotate the crop and thus increase the yield, not only of beets, but all other crops.

By the rotation method the yield of all cereals in Germany has increased 80 per cent during the last thirty years, while in this country the increase has been less than seven per cent.

The trouble with us is, that land is so cheap and so abundant, that we simply scratch the surface and results are proportionately meagre. We talk very glibly about the conservation of national resources and neglect our own garden patch, which is much more important.

Germany is the greatest beet producing country in the world, and the culture was long since reduced to a science. The farms are smaller, but every foot of land is utilized and the sugar beet is so intelligently handled that it contributes largely to agricultural prosperity. The protected American beet grower ought to be able to do as well.

A CHOICE BUNCH.

Some of the deserters of the republican party have organized for democratic work under the high sounding title of "The Wilson National Progressive Republican League." In a circular recently issued the announcement is made that "Prof. C. C. Pearce of Columbia university will take the stump in Wisconsin next week for Governor Wilson. He will act in conjunction with Senator John F. Blaine, who is at the head of the Wilson National Progressive Republican League movement in the middle west. Prof. Pearce, who holds the chair of eloquence and debating in Columbia university, was one of the most active supporters of Senator La Follette in the primary campaign. He is the fourth of Senator La Follette's leading supporters to join the Wilson National Progressive Republican League within the past ten days, the others being Gilbert B. Roe, Senator La Follette's former law partner; Walter W. Pollock, who managed the La Follette campaign in Ohio, and James E. Pope, one of the leading New Jersey La Follette men."

The fact that Senator La Follette is advising his friends to vote for Wilson, indicates that he is in sympathy with the movement. If this bunch of patriots have any claim on the republican party, will somebody please file the claim.

While repeated insults to girls and women on the street is most deplorable, and must be stopped, it might be well to remember that the present day scant costume and indecent exposure is, in a measure responsible. If any sort of a law, except the law of fashion, demanded the wearing of such garments, the women of the land would feel highly insulted.

If your wife wants to vote, for the sake of peace in the family you had better support the suffrage amendment. The question of woman suffrage should be decided by the women. If a majority of them want it, they should have it. The women of the state number from half to three quarters of a million. A very small percentage of them have been heard from in the campaign.

Senator La Follette was greeted by an audience which taxed the capacity of the opera house Saturday evening, but his talk was disappointing because he is a political orphan, and a man without a party has nothing to disclose but personal grievance and the people are not interested. The only thing that the meeting accomplished was to give the woman suffrage cause an audience free of expense.

Dooley says that you can take enough political tonic through a straw ballot to intoxicate any moderate drinker, and from present indications he seems to be right. It is all over but the shouting, with the Roosevelt leaders.

The London Evening Mail declares that Colonel Roosevelt is the uncrowned king of America. Are the people ready for the crowning and the monarchy to follow? We have had eight years of Roosevelt, and his election would mean eight years more, and then some.

The automobile accident which occurred on South Main street late Saturday night, suggests the importance of a license law for chauffeurs.

If McGovern is getting any consolation out of La Follette's support, he is easy to console.

HUSBAND'S CAPTURE SHATTERS DREAMS

Mrs. Felix Diaz dreamed that she would become the first lady of Mexico. The dream, however, was of short duration, for her husband, General Felix Diaz, leader of the latest Mexican revolution, was captured by the Federal forces before his revolt was a fortnight old. ON THE SPUR OF THE MOMENT

By ROY K. MOULTON.

When Grandma Was a Girl. They had not rats and Marcel waves or wasplike figures then.

No high heeled shoes or patent rouge made to deceive the men. No purring language, mincing walk or gay peroxide curl.

No chafing dish flubdubbery when grandma was a girl. No bachelor maids, no culture clubs, no time spent in the gym.

No thought of torture physical to make them lithe and slim. No low-neck gowns to give them grip when in the social whirl.

No bridge-whist made them nervous wrecks when grandma was a girl. No suffragets, no cigarettes, no cooking that was vile.

No bonnets trimmed with coconuts and lettuce were in style. No brainstorm shooting by a weak and sentimental churl.

No talk of soul affinities when grandma was a girl. No incompatibility of temper told in court.

No cases of desertion and no suits for non-support. No family skeletons exposed, no records to unfurl.

In fact, folks were quite sensible when grandma was a girl.

According to Uncle Abner. Undertaker Amos Butts has bought a new racing automobile and is tearing up the ground in these parts. He figures that the car will increase his business considerable if handled right.

Outside of paintin' a picket fence, it always seems to me that tryin' to eat codfish gravy with a fork is about the putterinest jog again.

Mr. Elmer Jones has just returned home from an extended trip for his health. He was sellin' pennant cases around the country fairs. He says he didn't go on the trip exactly for his health, but it practically amounted to that.

Lafe Hilliker has lost his lucrative position in the feed mill and as he has nothin' particular in view he is tryin' to decide whether to go into vaudeville or the insurance business.

Hank Tumps says there ain't no pertickler sayin' in smokin' a five-cent seegar that some feller gives you, for it genally takes a nicker's wuth of matches to keep it aokin'.

SERIOUS AUTO SMASH ON SATURDAY NIGHT

JOHN E. KENNEDY AND MARK
BOSTWICK BADLY INJURED,
OTHER TWO OCCUPANTS
BRUISED.

MACHINE TURNED OVER

After Striking Buggy on South Main Street, Pinned Driver Under Machine and Throwing Others of Party Many Feet
Through the Air.

What might have terminated in a fatal automobile accident occurred shortly before twelve Saturday evening when an automobile owned and driven by John E. Kennedy, smashed into a rig on South Main street,
throwing the occupants of the auto
many feet into the air and finally turning turtle pinning Kennedy under the car itself. Two of the automobile party were badly injured, Mark Bostwick, receiving a severe scalp wound and general shaking up and Kennedy a bad cut on the head and general bruises. Walter Britt, third member of the party, was badly shaken up by his fall to the hard pavement and strained his back and shoulders while J. D. King escaped with only a slight bruise which left him dazed for some time after the accident. The two occupants of the buggy struck escaped without anything more than a severe shaking up.
From all accounts, it would appear that the front and rear tires on the side nearest the buggy exploded, just as it was passing, throwing the machine into the vehicle and the force of the collision threw the occupants out. Kennedy was pinned beneath the wheel and under the auto when it turned turtle while the rest of the party were hurled through the air.
Bostwick landing on his head and shoulders, some thirty feet from the overturned car. King, who saw the possibility of the smash, had stepped to the running board and escaped with minor bruises, while Walter Britt, was thrown several feet away from the car and stunned.

Attorney John Cunningham was about a half block from the scene of the disaster and hurried back, finding Bostwick in the road and Kennedy under the machine. The car had turned completely around and was facing north resting against the curb,
which fact probably accounts for Kennedy not having more serious injury than fatal injuries. With others
Mr. Cunningham helped lift the car from Kennedy. Meanwhile neighbors had been roused and the ambulance and doctors telephoned for. Bostwick was bleeding profusely from a searing scalp wound which tore the wheel of his forehead loose and was hurried to Mercy hospital while Kennedy was taken up town and his injuries dressed before being taken home. He had a severe gash over his eye, six stitches being necessary and was bruised about the head and shoulders.

The two occupants of the buggy,
named Treloir, live on the Thornton Reed farm south of the city and were returning home. They escaped injury
but the buggy was smashed and Mr.
Reed came for them with his automobile being notified of the accident.
This afternoon Mr. Bostwick was reported as slightly easier although he passed a bad night, suffering from the wound and other injuries. His neck is badly strained and he suffers considerable pain. Mr. Kennedy was reported better and it is stated will suffer no permanent injuries. The other two occupants of the car are only slightly inconvenienced by their accident. The party had started down Main street after the La Pollette speech, to take King and Bostwick home. The smash-up occurred near Carrington street just before the corner was reached.

Fine for Two.

"Did you ever tell that young man that late hours were bad for one?"
asked father at the breakfast table.
"Well, father," replied the wise daughter, "late hours may be bad for one,
but they're all right for two."

Little Revenue.

"Is there any money in poetry?" inquired the hopeful amateur. "Not for me," replied the editor. "Few poets are able to pay for more than one insertion."

FIREMEN COPE WITH A STUBBORN BLAZE

Fought Fire Between Walls of Prospect Avenue House For Nearly Two Hours Last Night.

For nearly two hours last night the Janesville firemen fought a blaze between the walls of a house at 608 Prospect avenue, tenanted by James H.
Fellows, and owned by the Misses Caroline and Gertrude Zeininger. The fire was the most stubborn the department has encountered for a long time. It had obtained such headway when the alarm reached the station at about 9 o'clock that the blaze was visible from that point. Chemicals were used while hose was being laid, but both appeared useless.
Finally the firemen discovered that the walls were literally stuffed with wood shavings, through which the fire made steady headway. They then went to work to remove them and pierce holes in the wall for the entrance of water. Chief of the Fire Department Kline estimates the damage at from $300 to $350. The fire did not penetrate into the interior of the building to any extent. It is believed that the fire had been smoldering since seven o'clock, but the cause is not known. The fire started in the rear of the building, Mr. Fellows, who is a cripple, discovered it, and shouted for some time before attracting the attention of the neighbors, one of whom sent in the alarm from box 23.

LAST CALL RECEIVED BY MILO H. CURTIS

Well Known Janesville Resident and Contractor Died at His Home
Here Saturday Night.

Milo H. Curtis, for more than fifty years a resident of Janesville, and one of its most highly respected citizens, passed away at ten o'clock Saturday night at his home, 215 South High street. He had been sick but for a short time. Mr. Curtis was born in Wayne county, Pa., August 29, 1828, and is descended from Resolutionary stock, both grandfathers accompanying Washington on his celebrated crossing of the Delaware river. He was the youngest son of

MILO H. CURTIS.

Gideon Curtis, and the last of ten children. On June 24, 1853 he was married to Elizabeth Stout, and in the autumn of that year he came to Janesville. During the first year after his arrival he operated a saw-mill
on the east side of the river for A. K.
Norris, and was then engaged in draying for a number of years. Later he became a member of the firm of Williams and Curtis. They operated a retail wood-yard, running wood down the river in boats until 1867,
when the business was discontinued.
Since that time Mr. Curtis has been in the contracting business and operated stone quarries. He was at one time prominently identified with the manufacturing interests of the city.
Several years ago he retired from business with his son, Charles Curtis, assuming charge. The latter is his sole direct survivor. Mrs. Curtis passed away about five years ago,
and one son died in infancy. Mr.
Curtis was a man of unassuming, quiet manners, possessed of many friends who will be grieved at his death. Funeral services will be held at the home, 215 South High street,
at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon,
the Rev. David Beaton of the Congregational church officiating. Services at the grave will be conducted by the Masonic lodge of which Mr. Curtis was a member.

BRIEF LOCAL NEWS.

Showed Last Night: "The Girl of
the Underground" was staged at the Myers theatre last night to a good sized audience. The company playing it came to this city from Beloit, where they gave a performance
Saturday night.

To Attend Convention: Physical
Director T. C. Hartwell, and Dr. F. T.
Richards of this city, are planning to attend the state Y. M. C. A. convention at Eau Claire, Nov. 8, 9, and 10.
Totius Kelly, formerly of this city,
but now working in Wisconsin, will also go to Eau Claire. Others from this city may later signify their intentions of going.

Moves To Fox Lake: W. A. Schultz
has moved his family to Fox Lake, Ill., and will make his home at that place hereafter. Mr. Schultz has been engaged in dismantling and tearing down the old gravel plant of the Knickerbocker Ice Company and as the work is completed, he will become foreman in one of the gravel plants of that company at Fox Lake.

Classes to Start: The Business Men's classes of the Y. M. C. A. are to start tomorrow. The first class will meet Tuesday afternoon at half past four o'clock. About thirty of the business and professional men of the city have signified their intentions of joining the class, and it is expected that more will take up the work later.

Registration Day Tomorrow: Voters who wish to cast their ballot at the general election next Tuesday and did not register on the last registration day or at the primaries should be and register tomorrow. All voters will register at the polling booths in their ward. Third ward voters will vote, but not register at the library.

Lakota Club Meeting: The Lakota club will hold a meeting this evening adjourned from last Monday. A full attendance is desired.

Detective Here: Detective Roman of the St. Paul road was in the city two or three hours Saturday afternoon investigating the recent car robberies.

Trial Adjourned: Trial of the case of Emma Matson versus George H.
Bahr, which was called for ten o'clock
this morning, has been adjourned until Friday morning at the same hour.
Venue men for a jury will be drawn
at that time, and the taking of evidence begun next morning. The action is to recover a sum of money which the Matson alleges is due her for her services as housekeeper. Attorney John L. Fisher appears for the defendant, and John Cunningham for the plaintiff.

Bicycle Stolen: A Pierce-Arrow
bicycle belonging to Principal H. C.
Buell of the high school, was stolen from his barn Saturday night. The wheel had a black frame and spring fork. The police have been notified and are making an investigation.

Had Overcoat Stolen: J. H. Conroy
a La Prairie farmer, had his overcoat stolen from his wagon Saturday afternoon while the wagon was standing in the corner of Main and Court streets. It is a coat of medium length with a velvet collar. It was ripped on the inside of the lining and the collar. The police are searching for the thief and the missing coat.

Judge Here Wednesday: Judge
Grinnell will be at the circuit court chambers Wednesday morning of this week to hear whatever business may be ready for the court at that time.

Try to Raise Bail: Friends and relatives of Benny Calagatto, the Beloit Italian who is held to the grand jury
on a charge of counterfeiting, are mak-

Auto Strikes Cyclist: A man riding a bicycle was thrown but not injured when brushed by Dr. E. E. Loomis' car on the corner of Main and Court streets Saturday noon. Neither of the men knew that the other was intending to turn and the accident resulted.
Retailers to Dine: There is to be a meeting of the Janesville retailers association on Wednesday evening at a dinner to be held at the Grand Hotel,
at which time plans for the Bargain Week in connection with the Made In Janesville exhibit will be discussed.

Not Worried in the Least.

"I see your son is building an affliction." "Yes. He has it nearly finished." "Aren't you afraid to have him experiment with such a thing?" "Oh, no; not at all. I overheard him promise to let your boy try the first flight with it."

BENTLEY PASSED SEVERAL BAD CHECKS IN BELOIT.

Chief of Police Appleby Notified by Chief of Police Quaiman That
He Had Been at Work
There.

W. N. Bentley, the Beloit man who was arrested here Friday afternoon after forging the name of H. S. Johnson to a check has been doing a big business of the same kind, in his home town according to Chief of Police Quaiman of Beloit, who telephoned to Chief Appleby Saturday night. Some of the forged checks were for large amounts but most of them ranged from ten to twenty dollars. He spent the money freely in the saloons. Other changes may be preferred against Bentley.

AGED BROADHEAD MAN STRUCK AND KILLED BY A TRAIN SUNDAY

Andrew Reilly, 89 Years Old, Struck by East Bound Passenger on Sugar River Trestle.

Broadhead, Oct. 28.—Andrew Reilly, aged 89 years, and an old resident of this city, was killed by being struck by the 3:50 east bound passenger train Sunday afternoon as he was walking across the bridge which spans Sugar river, a mile west of the city. Parties who were near endeavored to make him understand the train was coming and others ran to get him out of the way, but he seemed to misunderstand and kept slowly on his way, and before help could reach him he was hurled into eternity.

The body was thrown thirty or forty feet ahead and to one side of the track and against a post. It is thought both legs were broken, the scalp torn completely off and the body badly mangled.

The remains were taken on board the train by the trainmen and brought to the station. Mr. Reilly was a gentleman well known to most of the citizens of Broadhead, by whom he was held in the highest regard. He was a widower and for years has made his home at the Reed House and Commercial hotel. He leaves a son and daughter who live elsewhere.

MRS. ELIZABETH PRINGLE PASSED AWAY AT EDGERTON

Death Takes Aged Resident After an Illness of Ten Weeks.—Funeral Held This Afternoon.
[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Edgerton, Oct. 28.—Mrs. Elizabeth Pringle passed peacefully away Saturday afternoon at 3:20 o'clock at her home on the corner of Mechanic and Union streets. Although well advanced in years, being in her seventy-eighth year, the immediate cause of her death was due to heart trouble with which she had been afflicted for the past ten months. The deceased's maiden name was Elizabeth Keller. She was born in Plymouth, Pa., on Feb. 28, 1835, and was married there to Orange Pringle, when seventeen years of age and after residing there for a time the family came here, settling first on a farm west of the city. Twenty-five years ago the husband passed away twelve years ago.

The funeral was held this afternoon at the late home, conducted by Rev. F. W. Schoenfeld and interment was made in Fasset cemetery.

Surviving are two daughters, being Mrs. Harry Hinson and Mrs. Emma Herrick, both of this city; also eight grandchildren, seven of whom reside here and one in St. Paul. She also leaves one brother, Joseph Keller of this city and one sister, Mrs. William Allen of Edgerton.

Edgerton News Notes.

October 28, 1912.—High atmospheric pressure prevails throughout the east, and the weather is fair and cool throughout the Atlantic states, the Appalachian mountain region and the Ohio Valley and Tennessee. A well developed area of low barometer occupies the Plains and the Rocky Mountain region, and is attended by widespread cloudiness and precipitation. The rains have been light on the Plains, but heavy rains and snows have fallen in the mountains, the heaviest fall being 1.52 inches of rain at Boise, Idaho.

Parliament a Refuge.

Down to 60 years ago a seat in the British parliament was a prize much sought for by men who found themselves beset by importunate creditors, inasmuch as in those times no civil action for debt could be brought against an M. P. When a dissolution occurred, this privilege of course was automatically annulled, a fact of which the creditors hastened to take full advantage. Dr. Israel once wrote that the only way to keep some men out of the house of correction was to get them into the house of commons.

Prolonging Life of Guns.

Henceforth all seacoast guns of six-inch caliber and over, except mortars, will be provided with double tubes, so that should the inner tube give way, the damage will not extend to the outer tube and the enveloping jacket and hoops. This will permit the restoration at small cost of guns whose tubes give way, and will facilitate the rehabilitation of guns whose accuracy has been lost through erosion and wear of the bore.

MAHONEY & NEWMAN SOUTH RIVER ST.
JANESVILLE, WIS.

YOUR HAIR IS FLUFFY, BEAUTIFUL AND LUSTROUS IN A FEW MOMENTS

Girls! Get a 25 cent bottle of "Danderine" and try this. Also stops falling hair; destroys every particle of dandruff.

Your hair becomes light, wavy, fluffy, abundant and appears as soft, lustrous and beautiful as a young girl's after a "Danderine hair cleanse." Just try this—moisten a cloth with a little Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. This will cleanse the hair of dust, dirt and excessive oil and in just a few moments you have doubled the beauty of your hair. Besides beautifying the hair at once, Danderine dissolves every particle of dandruff; cleanses, purifies and invigorates the scalp, forever stopping itching and falling hair. But what will please you most will be after a few weeks' use when you will actually see new hair—fine and downy at first—yes—but really new hair growing all over the scalp. If you care for pretty, soft hair and lots of it surely get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug-gist or toilet counter, and just try it.

COMMUNITY SOCIAL DRAWS LARGE CROWD

Eight Hundred Milton People Enjoy
Gathering at College Gymnasium
Saturday Evening.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milton, Oct. 28.—The Community social held at the college "gym" Saturday evening was an unqualified success. Seven or eight hundred people from both villages were in attendance, representing all ages and conditions, and everyone seemed to heartily enjoy the "getting together" occasion. After music by the Firemen's band the following program was presented:
Address of welcome—Principal J. F. Whitford.
Piano solo—Pres. W. C. Daland.
Violin solo—Earl D. Maxson.
Address—Rev. Dr. Perry.
Vocal solo—Prof. L. H. Stringer.
Banjo solo—Dr. E. B. Luthero.
Vocal solo—Mrs. J. F. Whitford.
Song—College Glee club.
Address—Comrade H. W. Rood.
America—Band and audience.
Each person was provided with a number and the gentlemen hunted out a lady with the number corresponding and joined in a grand march to the music of the band, with Dr. C. E. Perry as floor manager. It is to be hoped that there will be a repetition of this pleasant event at an early date. The beginning of the exercises was late and the program too long, which prevented elderly people from enjoying the social feature and retiring at reasonable hour.

DIET AND HEALTH HINTS

By DR. T. J. ALLEN
Food Specialist

PROTEIN AND BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

That the average American consumes three times as much protein as he needs, is the opinion of Doctors Dittman and Walker expressed in an article that appeared recently in the New York Medical Journal. This, they say, is an important factor in the causation of Bright's disease, which is steadily increasing. This view has been frequently emphasized in these hints, but while diet is important it must not be forgotten that worry and lack of proper exercise are important factors in this disease. The average business man, who eats meat twice a day and eggs, milk, cheese, beans and other food containing a large percentage of protein is very likely to contract Bright's disease. After middle life, the protein element of the diet should be much reduced. It has been fully demonstrated that one can live on ten per cent. protein, and that no meat at all is necessary. Salt should be excluded from the diet of one in whom the conditions of heredity and work are favorable to Bright's disease.

At The Theatre

STORY OF "KINDLING"

"Kindling," one of the most popular plays and most successful of the day, will be presented at the Myers Theatre, Saturday, Nov. 2, matinee and evening. Sarah Padden, an actress pleasantly remembered for her work as "Annie Jeffries" in "The Third Degree" will have chief role. She will be supported by William Macaulay and an excellent cast. It is described as a play of "laughter and tears" and was written by Charles Kenyon, a western newspaper writer. When produced in New York last season it was an immediate success and later it enjoyed a long run at the Cort Theatre in Chicago.

"Kindling" deals in a compelling way with a problem in eugenics. Maggie Schultz is the loving wife of an honest stover with a bit of grudge against the rich in his make-up. They live in a tenement in which the babies die in the fetid atmosphere and the souls of the elders shrivel in poverty. The stock is to visit the Schultz home and Maggie becomes obsessed with the idea that the child must be born away from that wretched environment. Everyone tells her, before she reveals her secret, that it isn't fair to children to bring them up into the world in such a wretched place. Her husband says so, the young doctor says so, and the "uplifters" visiting the tenements echo it. The dull Maggie becomes almost crazed and like an animal running at a bare she seizes the suggestion of a worn old woman of the tenements that it isn't wrong to steal from the rich to give a baby the right sort of a place to live in. The west, she tells Maggie, is the place for babies.

So Maggie goes to work for Mrs. Burke-Smith, the rich owner of the squalid tenement, and helps a very nasty sort of a yeggman plunder the house. Her share is a brooch which she pawns for $113, enough to take the Schultzes to Wyoming, where babies, they tell her, have a chance to live.

Schultz can't believe his wife's story that she borrowed the money. He forces the truth from her, but his wild rage is turned to pity when she discloses the reason for her crime. When the officers come after her he tries to go to prison in her stead.

The story turns out happily. The owner of the brooch, a sympathetic young person, intervenes, and saves Maggie, at which the wise detective winks knowingly. The curtain finds Maggie in her husband's arm and they are to leave for the great west the next day to make a new stand in life.

DINNER STORIES

Having been cautioned by the prosecuting attorney not to let the counsel for the defendant trick him into altering his testimony, the old negro on the witness stand braced himself suitably for the ordeal of cross-examination. He had just detailed on direct examination how he had seen the prisoner murder his victim, throw away his razor, and flee from the scene.

"You say you saw this man drop his razor and run away?" demanded counsel for the defendant in challenging tone.
"No, suh, Ah nevaht said dat," declared the witness.
The attorney consulted his notes a moment, then turned fiercely on the witness again.

"Do you mean to tell this court and jury," he thundered, "that you did not say a few minutes ago that you saw this defendant throw down his razor and run away?"

"No, sur, Ah nevaht did," insisted the old man stubbornly. "An, no lawyah can make me say somethin' Ah knows I didn't say."

"Well, what did you say?" demanded the exasperated counsel.
"Ah nevaht said Ah saw him," responded the old darkey slowly, with dignity. "Ah said Ah seen him!"

"Now, gentlemen!" called the auctioneer hoarsely, as he held up a suspiciously yellow "gold" watch. "What offers for this beautiful chronometer? Guaranteed sound in wind and in—er—warranted to keep good time—or and—"

Even he couldn't think of things to say about the watch he was selling. "Please may I bid?" called a modest young man quickly, from the back of the room.
"Certainly, my dear sir—certainly!"

replied the auctioneer delightedly.
All eyes turned quickly to the spot where stood the auctioneer's innocent victim.
"Well then," said the young man composedly, "I'll bid you—good night!"

She put down the book with a sigh.
"What is it, darling?" he asked.
"Ah, dearest, I'm so happy," she replied.
"But you had such a sad look in your eyes just now."
"I know. I've been reading about the unhappiness that the wives of men of genius have always had to bear. Oh, Alfred, I'm so glad you're just an ordinary sort of a fellow."

The Land Seeker's Guide

This Booklet gives information regarding lands open to those who wish to take up homesteads or to buy lands which are for sale very cheaply in a new country. The booklet which was prepared by one of the railroads, whose line is accessible to these lands, has been furnished the GAZETTE TRAVEL BUREAU for distribution and we believe contains something of interest to a great many people.

There is more truth than fiction to the statement that a good farm is the best investment a man can have, and this book will give the prospective homesteader or purchaser information of farm lands in a country where they can be secured very cheaply and where indications are that they will steadily increase in value until the owner has a comfortable competence for a few years time spent on a claim or for a small investment.

Detailed information is given regarding the land. Such important features as nature of soil, climate, water supply are discussed fully and in fact all matters necessary to be considered by a person thinking of making purchase or of taking them up as a homestead proposition.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

Editor of the Gazette:
Janesville, Wis.

Dear Sir: Since you have twice devoted space in your columns recently to a statement issued by the Madison Anti-Suffrage society, I trust you will in the spirit of fair play, permit a few personal observations on what the anti-suffragists have said.

Our critics say that "The women of our state were not interested in the question and there was no agitation until a number of outside workers made their appearance and started the noise." Yet the two leaders of the suffrage movement in the state, Rev. Olympia Brown of Racine, a pioneer of the cause not only here but in the entire country, and Miss Ada James, whose father, D. G. James, was the father of the woman suffrage amendment, are both Wisconsin women born and bred. While money and speakers have come to us from all over the country, as is always the case in a campaign state, home talent has furnished many of our ablest speakers, such as Mrs. La Follette, Mrs. McGreevy and Mrs. Gudden. The campaign has been financed largely by contributions from Wisconsin people, and the county suffrage organizations have received their funds from local contributions from many individuals in comparatively small amounts. While the avowed suffragists may be a small proportion of the entire female population, they are a formidable company when compared with the avowed anti-suffragists. The press is still smiling over the frantic efforts of the Madison anti's to get the signatures of twenty prominent people to a statement condemning suffrage, while the suffragists have been circulating for months a sheet of quotations endorsing suffrage from the most prominent men in the state.

In spite of the statement that "Wages cannot be raised by legislation," the fact remains that laws in Utah and Wyoming securing equal pay for equal work to men and women teachers alike actually does secure a higher rate of pay for their women teachers than prevails in the much richer state of Wisconsin. While the anti-suffragists say that "There are few states, if any, so far advanced as Wisconsin in laws protecting women in every phase of activity, child labor and welfare," we still lack two laws that every suffrage state has. We have no adequate law for the protection of girls and the mothers of our state are not the legal guardians of their own children. And until the vote allows women to place these laws on our statute books and to enforce them no Wisconsin woman should rest content to say, as the anti-suffragists do, "We, as women, ask no more than a continuation of that consideration and respect that in the past has made us all a happy and contented people."

How can a woman hope to "train her children to a full realization of the duties of manhood and citizenship" when she is classed as a political idiot, unfit to share the privileges of citizenship in which she is supposed to instruct her sons? She cannot protect her children when everything from the food they eat and the clothes they wear, to their sources of recreation, have been removed from the home to the political arena, where woman must follow her concerns if she is to continue to be a real housekeeper.

If you name ten women known today for their interest in guarding the home with good laws and clean government and protecting working women and children, nine out of the ten will be suffragists. Before we accept as final the verdict of a few protected, well-supported women who want no woman to have the ballot because they do not need it, let us consider that women wage-earners and philanthropists all over the country today are uniting in an insistent demand for the vote as a paramount necessity in winning a better heritage for the next generation.

The Next Thing.

Once a stranger asked Artemus Ward: "Can you tell me where I can get a good meal cheap?" "Certainly," answered Artemus. "There's a restaurant on the next block where you can get a fine dinner for 25 cents." "Thank you," said the stranger. "Now will you kindly tell me where I can get the 25 cents?"—Milwaukee Sentinel.

HIGH SCHOOL TEAM
WINS FROM OREGON

Evansville Eleven Has Easy Time in Game Saturday—Lee Gray Nuptials—Other Evansville News.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Evansville, Oct. 28.—The high school football team defeated the Oregon high school team at Oregon Saturday by the decisive score of 32 to 7.

The teams were about equally matched and the game an interesting one. Our team gained most on fake plays and line smashes, Mapes being especially good on line smashes.

Oregon made on touchdown on a fumble. In the last two minutes of the game Mapes broke through the line and ran sixty yards for a touchdown. Paul Jones intercepted a forward pass and made a touchdown after a forty yard dash.

Several times when Oregon was within a few yards of the goal, but our team braced and Evansville got the ball on downs. All of the team played a good game but especially the back field and ends. This game more than makes up for the two previous defeats.

WOMAN'S PAGE

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

CRITICISING THE NEWSPAPERS.

"THERE's that's just about as near as a newspaper gets to anything." The author-man's wife threw down the paper petulantly as she made that bromide criticism of the accuracy of newspapers.

The author-man's wife had been interviewed and she did not think the interviewer had quoted her correctly. It seems that he, the reporter, had asked if she did not think a certain thing was so, and when she had given a lukewarm assent, had quoted her as having of her own accord made emphatic statement to that effect.

And the author-man's wife was most indignant.

Justly, you say?

And yet think how many people do just that same thing.

"Gertrude says she doesn't think you have any right to do that, and that you are unreasonable even to think of it." So one friend of mine once quoted another.

It certainly sounded as if Gertrude were very much opposed, but I had good reason for thinking she had no such strong feeling, and questioning proved that just what I thought was true. Our mutual friend, after saying very warmly that she felt thus and so about my proposed move, had asked Gertrude if she did not agree, and she being one of those people who always agree with present company, had said she did.

Undoubtedly a great many things that one person quotes another as saying, are said in just about that way, and yet we blame the newspapers because they do the same.

It is quite the fashion among cultured people to cry down the newspapers every now and then, which, quite aside from the justice of the accusation, seems almost as absurd as crying down what we see in our mirrors. For after all, your newspaper is nothing more nor less than a reflection of your tastes and your interests.

But to return to the justness of the accusation. As a rule I think the newspapers are not a bit worse than the people who criticize them.

We object to the newspapers' inaccuracy in quoting. I have already pointed out how often we also are guilty.

We inveigh against the scandal that the newspaper parades. If we never tell a juicy bit of gossip to our neighbor we have a right to complain. Otherwise not. And by the by, let me tell you that the newspaper is a good thing more careful about what scandal it repeats than most private individuals. It has to be—the libel law hangs over it.

We talk about exaggeration! If the average newspaper is any more inclined to exaggerate than the average individual I miss my guess. Besides, the newspaper exaggeration is often based on misinformation which the readers themselves give the newspaper reporters.

Take it by large, it seems to me that our newspapers are one of the most wonderful products of our whole civilization and deserve our admiration a great deal more than our criticism.

HOUSEHOLD TALKS

Henrietta D. Cravel

CERTAIN cuts and parts of meat are smoked, or salted, because the process adds to their flavor. They can, with little trouble, be served in the most inviting form, and should compel a speedy reduction in the price of the family meat bill.

Smoked meats should be freshened over night in cold water; salted meat, as corned beef, will only need to be freshened for a few hours, unless the brine has been very strong.

A beef's tongue should be freshened, then boiled two hours. Before boiling trim carefully and skewer into shape. When it is so tender that it may be easily pierced with a fork, remove from the water, cool and skin. If it is to be used cold, cut the slices almost a quarter of an inch thick, arrange on a platter with the slices overlapping. Serve tartar sauce with this.

If spiced tongue is wanted, put a few broken cloves, some cinnamon bark and allspice in a bag and boil with the tongue.

Corned beef should be well freshened, then boiled three quarters of an hour for every pound of beef up to eight pounds.

When tender, remove any bones and press the meat into a neat, compact shape and cool in a mold or under a weight. Pressing it in this way enables it to be sliced neatly and prevents it having a coarse-grained or stringy appearance. Many persons claim to have an aversion toward corned beef because they object to its rough appearance.

Cold, cooked corned beef is excellent used in the same ways that other cold meats are used.

A WOMAN'S OBSERVATIONS

Edna K. Wooley

ONCE A "MRS." ALWAYS A "MRS." In refusing to restore her maiden name to a divorcee, recently, a Boston judge declared that woman once married should keep her title "Mrs."

Said he:

"A man wishing to make a woman his wife should surely know about her past matrimonial experiences."

Undoubtedly, the judge is right. It must be something of a shock to a man who has fallen in love with a woman whom he has known as "Miss," to find that she has been a wife. It is especially disquieting for him to learn that she has a former husband living.

Of course it will be argued that he may never find out. But somehow the truth has a habit of coming out, often at the most unexpected times. Therefore isn't it better, in the long run, not to try to keep secret anything of an important nature? It will be difficult for a man who honestly loves absolute obedience from her. "If I object," she said, "he reminds me that I solemnly promised at the altar to obey him. I didn't realize it when I did. It doesn't seem right. And he is so jealous that he expects me to stay like a prisoner in the house and never stir anywhere without him. I'm not going to obey him much longer. I tell you, even if it is in the marriage service."

No thinking, intelligent woman should be required to "obey" anything but her own conscience.

A husband can hardly expect to be his wife's conscience, though some, it would appear, actually attempt it. Occasionally one finds a happy marriage where the man is a good many years older than the wife. But as a rule, the nearer in age that husband and wife are, the more respect the man has for the woman's opinion and the less apt he is to exercise a masculine tyranny over her. Their tastes are more apt to be similar, also, and one will not long to be out gallivanting while the other prefers the quiet and coziness of home.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

OH, HOUR of all hours the most blessed upon earth, Blessed hour of our dinner.

Since Eve ate apples much depends on dinner.

SOMETHING FOR DINNER.

Braised Beef.—Try out two thin slices of fat salt pork and remove the scraps. Wipe three pounds of beef out from the round or rump and sprinkle with salt, pepper and flour; brown the surface in the hot fat, turning carefully not to pierce the meat and allow the juices to escape. Place on a trivet in a deep earthen pan or baking dish, and surround with the following vegetables: One-fourth of a cupful each of onion, turnip, celery and carrot, all cut fine; add a half-teaspoonful of peppercorns and salt. Cover with three cupfuls of boiling water and cover closely, cooking four hours. Baste the meat every half hour, and turn it after the second hour. Keep the liquid at the simmering point, as too much heat toughens the meat. Serve with a brown sauce, made from the liquor in the pan.

For Company Dinner.—A fillet of Beef With Vegetables.—Wipe a three-pound fillet and remove the fat. Fry a half pound of butter in a hot frying pan, and when melted add the fillet and turn frequently until the entire surface is well-seared over and browned, then turn occasionally until done, cooking about thirty minutes. Remove the meat to a serving dish and garnish with a cupful each of cooked peas, carrots cut in fancy shapes, and well seasoned; one-half pound of mushrooms sautéed in a little butter. Serve with:

Brown Mushroom Sauce.—Pour off a fourth of a cup of fat from the frying pan, add five tablespoonfuls of flour and stir until well browned; add a cup of soup stock, a third of a cup of the mushroom liquor and a half pound of mushrooms cut in pieces and cooked in butter five minutes. Season with salt, pepper and just before serving, while stirring constantly, add the butter, remaining in the frying pan.

To obtain mushroom liquor, cook the stems of mushrooms in cold water to cover and reduce to a third of a cup.

A Teacher's Views on the Servant Girl Question

ONE of the experts on vocational guidance, who are now becoming a part of the faculty of so many schools, has some decided and rather interesting views on the subject of domestic service for girls. Her viewpoint is worth considering, especially by those who are trying to solve this perplexing problem, and to bring chaos out of the present situation.

She doesn't advise any of the girls, whose choice of an occupation she is supposed to guide, to go into domestic service. And this attitude has brought down upon her a storm of criticism, both from women interested in the working girl, and even from some broad-minded employers, who believe that employment in the home is better for girls than employment in factories and stores.

But she doesn't change her front. And in support of her position, she says:

"It isn't the hard work that makes domestic service unendurable. The trouble is that the relation of servant and mistress is unsocial. Human feeling doesn't enter into it. The system is wrong, for you should enter into human relations with everybody with whom you deal."

The finer and larger household, the less of this human relationship between mistress and servants. In a large establishment the girl is a mere automaton, a machine. This atmosphere of contempt, or of lack of recognition of her as a human being, is the great curse of the system. I wouldn't expose any girl to it. A serving girl has as much right to a real human life as any one else has, and she cannot be always treated as a piece of clay, if she is to develop. Her usefulness, too, depends upon her happiness; but happiness is impossible in the atmosphere in which many servant girls live.

"It isn't the element of personal service that makes the work so degrading. A nurse or a doctor serves you just as intimately, but there is nothing degrading about that. But to a large extent, the servant is not justified socially, and a servant must be justified socially to have a standing in society. And in many homes she is not justified. She is there simply because the mistress is lazy, or wants to make a show before the world of keeping a large establishment. And the maid who serves, suffers thereby, a social stigma. It is a cause we seldom consider, but nevertheless, sociologically, it is one of the causes for the lack of caste of those who do household work. They are pandering to parasitism. Domestic service must become a work that is an altogether necessary part of the social order, then it will have standing."

"In time, we shall have trained domestic science experts, whose service to the community will be just as valuable, and therefore just as much respected as any other. Then there will be no servant problem."

There is fresh food for thought in what this teacher says. Is there not? When every woman is useful in the social order, in one way or another, and the woman who does the cooking and cleaning and managing of a home, does so because the mistress of the home is otherwise usefully employed, then indeed the servant girl problem will have disappeared. The helpers in our homes will be business women, with a position of their own in the world of work, quite as respected as that of any other worker.

And we women can bring about this most happy change when we once get together and get busy in earnest and in the right spirit upon the improvement desired.

"TUBERCULOSIS DAY" WAS OBSERVED HERE

SUBJECT OF TUBERCULOSIS AND ITS DANGERS TAKEN UP AT THE VARIOUS CHURCHES IN THE CITY.

STRONG SERMON GIVEN

Rev. T. D. Williams of Cargill Methodist Church, Spoke Sunday Morning on the Topic, "The Fight Against Tuberculosis."

The dangers of tuberculosis and the need of action to check its ravages were set forth in a sermon Sunday morning by the Rev. T. D. Williams at the Cargill Methodist church. Yesterday was Tuberculosis Day and sermons were preached in the various churches throughout the city, state and country.

At the opening of his remarks, Rev. Williams read a letter from Dr. H. L. Dearholt, secretary of the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association, stating that at the November meeting of the county board the matter of building a county tuberculosis sanatorium would be submitted and urging the pastor to do all in his power to aid in securing such an institution.

The text of the sermon was taken from the second verse of the ninth chapter of Luke: "And he sent them to preach the Kingdom of God and to heal the sick."

"In the construction of the Kingdom," said Rev. Williams, "the healing of the body has been associated with the healing of the soul. I am not going to discuss 'Divine healing' or 'faith cure,' so-called but make a plea for conditions that will reduce the danger to a minimum.

"Disease was prevalent in the Orient; blindness, deafness, paralysis, and leprosy hung like a pall upon the people. Jesus met them in every highway; the sick and the stricken appealed to Him and when He sent His disciples out, he said: 'Preach the Gospel and heal the sick.'"

"Our country with all its attractive features of wealth, climate, scenery and civilization, has many forms of body-destroying diseases—malaria, cancer, fevers, tuberculosis, infantile paralysis, catarrh, diphtheria—their name is legion. They challenge the skill of the physicians and the death toll every year runs into the hundreds of thousands.

"Tuberculosis is a disease process caused by the growth in the body of the tubercle bacillus or germ, a vegetable parasite, (far too small to be seen with the naked eye), discovered in 1882, by Dr. Robert Koch of Berlin, Germany. The germ growing in the body destroys tissue and produces poisons which cause the well-known symptoms.

"The most common form of tuberculosis is that of the lungs, known as consumption. It attacks all other parts of the body, especially bones and joints. No part of the body is exempt and people may have it for years and not know it.

"The death rate is enormous," said Rev. Williams, "and he gave the figures for death by tuberculosis in the United States as two hundred thousand per year, more than the combined membership of the leading English Protestant churches in Wisconsin, and almost as great as the number killed during the Civil War. It is some scourge should sweep over this country and wipe out that many lives he said; the world would be stirred from end to end. He also gave figures as to the enormity of the death rate throughout the world and in Wisconsin where it kills 2500 persons a year and causes a money loss of $200,000. One in every seven persons who die, he said, die of tuberculosis.

Turning to Rock county and the effects of the disease, the pastor said: "We have a population of about 55,000. In 1910, there were 265 cases and 1911, 310 cases. In 1910 there were 53 deaths, and in 1911, 62—in one year an increase of 45 cases and an increase of 9 deaths. If the rate of Rock county cases holds throughout the state, we have now between thirteen and fourteen thousand cases. This awful scourge has upon the people. It is a Rock county problem, a Wisconsin problem, a national problem, a medical problem, legislative, school and church problem. That is why we consider it this morning.

"Why fight it? First, in self-defense. Self defense is the first law of nature. A porcupine, when pursued by an enemy turns into a pillow of quills and many employ the weapons of science and precaution and favorable environment.

"Eternal vigilance is the price of health." The medical profession declares that tuberculosis is not hereditary. If the mother has it, or it is in the home, the child may be poisoned immediately after birth. They declare that every case of tuberculosis comes directly or indirectly from some previous case—that is, it has communicating power; it emits poison and that poison infects others. We may not locate the habitat of the infection, but it lurks in unventilated and poison-infected homes, on the street, in schoolrooms, in the crowded cars and in the public drinking cups—everywhere the poison lingers to fasten upon its prey."

Rev. Williams spoke of the death of his brother in California, and said that no one is immune from the disease and cited instances where a strong man had contracted the disease from a consumptive who expectorated the infection on the floor of his tent, and of the spread of the disease in infected buildings.

"Predisposing causes of the disease in the person and in the environment were given; in the person through a weakened constitution, weakened physical condition due to overwork or disease, lack of proper food and clothing and alcoholism or other excesses; and in the environment through bad living and working conditions, impure air, dust, dirt and darkness.

"We must fight it from philanthropic motives to protect others," said Rev. Williams. "The world has made progress through sacrifice. The cart that has brought blessings to our door has rolled over the bodies of men and women who gave their lives to make traffic possible." As examples he said that the gladiatorial fights in Rome were stopped by the voluntary sacrifices of life, and he spoke in words of high praise for "Billy" Rough, the Gary, Ind., cripple who gave his life to save that of a young lady who was so badly burned.

"Doing for others; dying that others might live—that is the law of life. What we have of information and warning concerning these preventable diseases has come to us through the sacrifice of the medical profession." The pastor here spoke of the work of the doctors who fought the yellow fever-bearing mosquito in the Canal zone, of Dr. McQuintie, who went into the Bitter Root Valley and lost his life in order to teach others how to escape the dangers of Rocky Mountain fever; and of Dr. Flexner, who is studying on the question of infantile paralysis.

"These men who give their lives in the study and treatment of disease, deserve our profoundest admiration and gratitude to locate the habit of the germ of death and throttle the germ in its living-place, we certainly will co-operate and sacrifice to make conditions impossible for disease germs to live.

"What can we do? First of all let us build our houses to get the sun. No one ought to be permitted to build a house without an architect's license. Does he know how to build a house so that the sun can bathe the living rooms from sunrise to sunset? I go into houses and they are elegant on the outside and elegantly furnished on the inside. Everything but the sun, things that the sun can't get into, you have to rebuild your house. What is the sun for? To light and warm and vivify a human life, but it is death to germs. Germs thrive in the dark. They turn up their heels and die when you turn the sun on them.

"Be careful how you live. Colds bring on catarrh, pneumonia, and other ailments which make a favorable soil for the germs to thrive. We live in a catarrh belt. Weather changes are abrupt and a year ago when we had the tornado, the heat was almost unbearable. The next morning the windows were frosted. Be careful of clothing. Keep the feet dry. If you get a cold, stop eating. Feed a cold and you will have a fever and the family physician will come. These colds say to the germs, 'Come on now; we'll have the time of our life.'"

"Keep cheerful. Disease always scents a grouchy person. Do you know what a grouchy person is? A man whose blood pressure is way up, and his mouth way down. These are cardinal rules of health: pure air, proper eating; doomwork; do not worry. A merry heart doeth good like a medicine. Let us capture the smiles and put them on. Keep busy doing good and there will be no time to nurse in grief. Keep sweet. If we live on the sunny side of the street and smile and smile, we'll conquer disease with our smiles.

"But we must go on the street. We cannot stay in the house all the time, no matter how sanitary, and as soon as we are on the street, the germs are there to seize us. They are under the sidewalk, and on the roofs of houses ready to pounce upon us. How did they get there? The consumptive expectorates on the streets and the germs are released. We ought to have a public cuspidor at corners of streets with solution of formaldehyde or chloride of lime and a placard, 'Spitting on streets forbidden. Expectorate in here.'"

"All school children should be inspected at the beginning of the year, and all carrying a temperature should be sent home to be examined by the family physician. The state legislature and city council should make generous appropriations to fight it," and the speaker advocated care in the selection of men sent to the legislature. He also urged the support be given the Wisconsin Anti-Tuberculosis association in its work, and spoke of the sale of the Red Cross Christmas stamps. He also said that the work is a field for private philanthropy.

In closing he said: "Finally let us keep an unbroken alliance with God. Tennyson said: 'My strength is as the strength of ten because my heart is pure.'"

Without that "SKUNKY" Taste or Odor

That offensive taste and odor in some beers is easily avoided. Light starts decay even in pure beer. Dark glass gives the best protection against light.

"While beer quickly deteriorates when it is exposed to direct sunlight, such deterioration, although greatly retarded, will eventually take place in diffused light. Beer exposed to the rays of the sun will very quickly acquire the so-called 'skunk taste'."

WHY WHO'S WHO.
(By Howard L. Rann.)

UNDoubtedly

the most successful song bird which Italy ever sent to our shores, at $5 per sent, is Enrico Caruso, otherwise known as the Italian nightingale. Enrico is a built quite a fine, 300 lb. man, and having a surplus of girl, but as a sonster, he is as lissom as a lean man in a bathing suit. He can throw his voice a long way without letting go of it, and then can pull it back in and use it all over again. This has enabled him to last longer than most singers, who usually give out at the beginning of the fourth act and have to resort to the sign language.

Caruso has a rich, high-spirited tenor voice, which nets him $2,500 whenever he lets it start. This voice is full of top notes, which he discharges at the tinnies and low-necked gowns with great enthusiasm. There is also a loud, three-cushion-carom high C concealed in one end of it, and whenever Caruso takes this out and aims it at the second balcony they have to fashingle the roof of the opera house.

As a breadwinner, Caruso makes the remainder of the foreign element look like the slide trombone in a bar-storming stock company. Whenever he needs a little ready money he sings something into the ear of a defenseless graphophone which distributes his E-flats and fearful sob about the humble hearths of people who complain that they can't understand the words. Caruso has recently begun to operate in the English language, and succeeds in making it highly pathetic.

As an actor, Caruso does not cause anybody's hair to rise up and crinkle in union. He is improving rapidly, however, and will finally get so that he can point his voice somewhere except in the direction of the family circle, when he is about to open a deep crevice in the baritone with a short sword.

Caruso does not associate with any of the Wagner music dramas, which he says are most effective when sung through a megaphone or interpreted to the accompaniment of a sneeze. Nevertheless, he is the greatest tenor in captivity, and the critics have to give it to him.

AFTON

Afton, Oct. 28.—Reformation Sunday and communion service will be observed by the Lutherans at the Baptist church Sunday, November 3, at 10 o'clock.

Friends of Miss Lilla Peacock were shocked to hear of her death Wednesday morning, at her home at Lima Center. Miss Peacock had been confined to her bed most of the time for several weeks with heart trouble. Deceased had visited this place a number of times, when her sister, Miss Carrie Peacock, was one of the teachers in the village school, and had made many friends here. The funeral was held at the home Friday and was very largely attended. Those from here who attended the services were: Mrs. George Ous, Mrs. Roy Antisdel, Mrs. Fred Ketchum and son Frank, Miss Emma Lounsbury, Ray Humphrey and Will Griffin.

The funeral of Mrs. M. Mathias, whose death occurred Friday at her home, northwest of Afton, was held at the home Sunday. Interment was in the Afton cemetery.

Mrs. Charles Geeser spent a couple of days this week at the home of her mother, Mrs. Owen Gower.

Miss Bates, who has been on the sick list returned to her school duties Monday.

Mrs. Jane Kilmer is spending the week at the home of her son, John, at Janesville.

Miss Mary Denover, who was home for two weeks, returned to Lake Geneva, last Saturday, the school opening Monday, after an epidemic of infantile paralysis.

Mrs. C. Wilson has returned to her home at Wisner, Nebraska. Mrs. Wilson came here to care for her mother, Mrs. Joseph Williams, during her last illness.

Mrs. James Seales has returned from a visit with her sister, at Rockton, Ill.

STOMACH SICK, SOUR, UPSET AND FULL OF GAS? PAPE'S DIAEPSIN

In five minutes! Time it! All Indigestion Heartburn and Dyspepsia gone and your stomach feels fine.

Wonder what upset your stomach—what portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt, if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; your head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Diaepsin and in five minutes you will wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diaepsin occasionally keeps the stomach regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage, instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diaepsin which costs only fifty cents, is a large case at drug stores. It's a truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is astonishing. Please don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

CHAPTER XI.

The Governor is Surprised.

But the Lady Elise had not gone. Passing from the cloister through the great arched doorway leading to the high-roofed refectory, she had stopped at the sight of a number of people gathered near the entrance. At first she had merely glanced at them; then, started, as, in the somewhat dim light prevailing there, her eyes became fixed upon one of their number. Obviously a prisoner, he stood in the center of the group, with head down-bent, a hard, indifferent expression on his countenance. Amazed, the girl was about to step forward to address him—or the commandant—when Beppo appeared from the cloister, walked toward the officer, and, in a low, murmured tone, said something she could not hear. Whatever it was, the commandant caused him to repeat it; made a gesture to the soldiers, who drew back, and spoke himself to the prisoner. The latter did not reply nor raise his eyes; and the commandant laid a heavy hand on his shoulder, whereupon the prisoner moved forward mechanically, through the doorway.

"You are sure his Excellency said 'alone'?" asked the commandant. "As sure as I have ears," answered Beppo. "But her ladyship—see! She is walking after him." Beppo shrugged his shoulders. "She always does what she pleases; no orders apply to her."

In the shadow of the cloister roof, at a corner where the double row of pillars met, the girl paused; looked out through the columns, her hand at her breast. The Governor was unconcernedly writing; not even when the prisoner stepped forward did he turn from his occupation; at his leisure dotted an "H" and crossed a "t," sprinkled sand lightly over the paper; waited a moment; then tapped the fine particles from the letter. For his part, the prisoner displayed equal patience, standing in an attitude of stolid endurance.

"Your name is Sanchez?" At length the Governor seemed to notice the prisoner's presence. "Yes." "And you formerly served the Seigneur Desaurac? Followed him to America?" "As your Excellency knows," the servant's tone was veiled defiance. A trace of pink sprang to the Governor's brow, though the eyes he lifted were impassive. "You will answer 'yes' or 'no'?" He reached for a stick of wax, held it up to the tiny flame of a lamp; watched the red drops fall. "When you returned, it was to live in the forest with a nameless brat?"

"My master's son!" "By a peasant woman, his—?" "Wife!" The Governor smiled; applying a seal, pressed it hard. "The courts found differently," he observed in a mild, even voice, as speaking to himself and extolling the cause of justice. "The courts! Because the priest who married them had been driven from Brittany! Because he could not be found then! Because—" The man's indignation had got the better of his taciturnity, but he did not finish the sentence.

"Either," said the Governor quietly, "you are one of his simple-minded people who, misguided by loyalty, cherish illusions, or you are a scheming rogue. No matter which, unfortunately, in crisp tones, 'it is necessary to take time to deal with you.' At your Excellency's service!" And the man folded his arms but, again turning to his table, the Governor apparently found some detail of employment there of paramount importance; once more kept the prisoner waiting.

tary of the church had been accustomed to recline while brethren lavied his feet from the tiny stone lavatorium before it, she half sank, her cheek against one of its cold sides; in an attitude of expectation breathlessly waited. Why was it so still? Why did not her father speak? She could hear his pen scratch, scratch!

They were again speaking; more eagerly she bent forward, listened to the hard, metallic voice of the Governor. "You left the castle at once when the decree of the court, ordering it vacated, was posted in the forest?" "My master told me to, pretending he was going, but—"

"Remained to resist; to kill." The Governor's tones, without being raised, were sharper. "And when, after the crime against the instruments of justice, he escaped to the high seas, why did you not go with him?"

"He wouldn't have it." "Thinking you would be more useful here?" "A spy?"

"He said he would be held an outlaw; a price put on him; and—he dismissed me from his service." "Dismissed you? An excellent test! But, with sudden incisiveness, 'what about the priest, eh? What about the priest?'"

The man straightened. "What priest?" he said in a dogged tone. "You are accused of harboring and abetting an unfrocked fellow who has long been wanted by the government, a scamp of revolutionary tendencies; you are accused of having taken him to sea; the prisoner started, 'to some rendezvous—a distant isle—to meet some one; to wait for a ship; to be smuggled away—'"

The man did not reply; with head sunk slightly, seemed lost in thought. "Speak—answer!" "Who accuses me?"

From the stone chair the girl sprang; looked out. Her face white, excited, peering beneath the delicate spandril and stone roses, seemed to come as an answer. "Have I not told you—" began the Governor sternly, when—

"Bah!" burst from the prisoner violently. "Why should I deny what your Excellency so well knows? I told my master not to trust her; that she would play him false; and that once out of his hands—"

"Her? Whom do you mean?" The Governor's eyes followed the man's; stopped. "Elise!"

"I think," her eyes very bright, the girl walked quickly toward him, "I think this man means me."

"Elise!" the Governor repeated. "Forgive me, mon pere; I didn't intend to listen, but I couldn't help it—because—"

"How long," said the Governor, "have you been there?" "Ever since—he came in. I suppose," proudly turning to the man,

"Have I Not Told You—"

"It is useless to say that I did not play this double role of which you accuse me, and that I did keep, in every particular, the promise I made—"

"Oh, yes; you could say it, my Lady!" with sneering emphasis. "But you reserve to yourself the right not to believe me? That is what you mean?" The man's stubborn, vindictive look answered. "Then I will deny nothing to you; nothing! You may think what you will."

His face half-covered by his hand, the Governor gazed at them; the girl, straight, slender, inflexibly poised; the prisoner eyeing her with dark, unvarying glance.

"Die!" he muttered. "What is this?" and concern gave way to a new feeling. Her concern for something—somebody—held him. A promise! "You can step back a few moments, my man!" to Sanchez. "A little farther—to the parapet! I'll let you know when you're wanted." And the prisoner obeyed, moving slowly away to the wall, where he stood out of earshot, his back to them. "You spoke of a promise?" the Governor turned to his daughter. "To whom?"

A suggestion of color swept her face, though she answered at once without hesitation: "To the Black Seigneur."

The slight form of the Governor stirred as to the shock of a battery. "There is no harm in telling now," hurriedly she went on. "He saved me from the 'grand' tide—for I was on Saladin's bank when he bolted and ran. I had not dismounted, though he allowed you to infer so, and he had carried me almost to the island of Casque when we heard and saw the water coming in. The nearest place was the island—not the point of the mainland, as I felt obliged to lead you to think, and we started for it; we might have reached the cove, had not Saladin stumbled and thrown me. The last I remembered the water came rushing around, and when I awoke, I was in a watch-tower, with him—the Black Seigneur!"

The Governor looked at her; did not speak. "I—I at first did not know who he was—not until this man came—and the priest! And when he, the Black Seigneur, saw I had learned the truth, he asked me to promise—not for himself—but because of this man—to say nothing of having met him there, or the others! And I did promise, and—he sent me back—and that is all—"

"Ah! Did the Governor speak the word? He sat as if he had hardly comprehended; a deeper flush dyed her cheek. "You can not blame me—after what he did. He saved me—saved my life. You are glad of that, mon pere, are you not? And it must have been hard doing it, for his clothes were torn, and his hands were bleeding—he can't be all bad, mon pere! He knew who I was, yet trusted me—trusted!" The Governor looked at her; touched a bell; the full-toned note vibrated far and near.

"What are you going to do?" Something in his face held her. Again the tones startled the stillness. "Remember it is I who am responsible for—"

"Your Excellency?" Across the court appeared Beppo, moving quickly toward them. "Your Excellency?" "One moment!" The servant stepped back; the Governor looked first at the girl, then toward the entrance of the cloister.

"You want me to go?" Her voice was low; strained; in it, too, was a hard, rebellious accent. "But I can't—can't—until—"

"What?" "You promise to set him free! This man who brought me back! Don't you see you must, mon pere? Must!" she repeated.

His thin lips drew back disagreeably; he seemed about to speak; then reached among the papers and turned them over absently. "Very well!" he said at length without glancing up.

"You promise," her voice expressed relief and a little surprise, "to set him free?" "Have I not said so?" His eyelids veiled a peculiar look. "Yes, he shall be liberated—very shortly."

"Thank you, mon pere." A moment she bent over him; the proud, sweet lips brushed his forehead. "I will go, then, at once." And she started toward the door. Near the threshold she paused; looked back to smile gratefully at the Governor, then quickly went out.

CHAPTER XII.

At the Cockles.

A rugged mass of granite, rent by fissures, and surrounded by rocks and whirlpools, the Norman English isle, so-called "Key to the Channel," one hundred miles or more northwest of the Mount, had from time immemorial offered "aven to ships out of the pale of French ports. Not only a haven, but a home, or that next-best accommodation, an excellent inn. Perched in the hollow of the mighty cliff and reached by a flight of somewhat perilous stairs, the Cockles, for so the ancient tavern was called, set squarely toward the sea, and opened wide its shell, as it were, to all waifs or stormy perils blown in from the foamy deep.

Good men, bad men; Republicans, royalists; French-English, English-French, the landlord—old Pierre Laroché, retired sea-captain and owner of a number of craft employed in a dangerous, but profitable occupation—received them willingly, and in his solitude for their creature comforts and the subsequent reckoning, cared not a jot for their politics, morals, or social views. It was enough if the visitor had no lenient capacity; looked the fleshpots in the face and drank of his bottle freely.

The past few days the character of old Pierre's guests had left some room for complaint on that score. But a small number of the crew of the swift-looking vessel, well-known to the islanders, and now tossing in the sea-nook below, had shortly after their arrival toward dusk of a stormy day, repaired to the inn, and then they had not called for their brandy or wine in the smart manner of seamen prepared for untinted sacrifice to Bacchus. On the contrary, they drank quietly, talked soberly, and soon prepared to leave.

"Something has surely gone wrong," thought their host, "Why did not your captain come ashore?" he asked. "Not see his old friend, Pierre-Laroché, at once! It is most unlike him."

And on the morrow, the islanders, or English-French, more or less privateersmen themselves, were equally curious. Where had the ship come from? Where was it going? And how many tons of wine, bales of silk and packages of tobacco, or "ptum," as the weed was called, had it captured? Old Pierre would soon find out, for early that day, despite the inclemency of the weather, he came down to the beach, and, followed by a servant, got into a small boat moored close to the shore.

"He is going aboard!" "Who has a better right? His own vessel!"

"No; Andre Desaurac—the Black Seigneur's! They say he long ago paid for it from prizes wrested from the Governor of the Mount."

WHEN YOUR HAIR BRUSHES OUT

Your hair is as sensitive as your skin—more so. It stands up under heavy hats, curling irons, and diseases of the scalp, etc.—But there is a limit.

When you comb and brush your hair in the morning, watch for the "TRAILERS" that turn grey, fall out, and comb out with the first morning brush.

You MUST know that there's something wrong. If your hair is in good health, it wouldn't fall out, nature never intended that. There is something wrong at the root of things—the hair needs a tonic—a restorer.

When you are sick you take medicine. That is your first thought. In turning grey, falling out, are both ways the hair has of "complaining of illness." It can't do it in any other way. —DO YOUR PART. Use HAY'S HAIR HEALTH

Imitators on Every Hand.

Though a nation famous for invention to a great extent, we are imitators. The pioneer of a new path finds himself crowded off, so many rush to follow in his footsteps. The scramble to cultivate new fields becomes so great that the soul is soon exhausted. Markets become glutted and stagnation results. One man makes a happy hit, thousands imitate him, there is a stampede and then failure. Inventions are imitated, names are copied.

No Pudding for Japan.

The Japanese have no puddings, creams, pies or custards, or anything in which milk and butter are essential; and in actual cookery sweets do not play an important part. Candy and cake stores abound in all their cities and villages, for tea and cakes are always set before every guest. The foundation of all their sweetmeats is either finely ground rice flour sweetened or sugared beans. Centuries ago the Portuguese taught the Japanese to make sponge cake, which is much in favor. It is called kasutera.

Later Particulars.

Macbeth was laying on lustily. "I don't allow any man to swear at me!" he exclaimed. For at that time there had been no court decision to the effect that the word used by Macbeth was not profane.

Want to Feel Young?

It's Olive Tablets For You!

Beware of the habit of constipation. It develops from just a few constipated days, especially in Old People, unless you take yourself in hand. Coax the jaded bowel muscles back to normal action with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the substitute for cathartics. Don't force them to unnatural action with severe medicines or by merely flushing out the intestines.

Dr. Edwards believes in gentleness, persistence and Nature's assistance. With nasty sickening cathartics Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets oil the bowels; their action is gentle, yet positive. There is never any pain or griping when Olive Tablets are used. Just the kind of treatment old persons should have.

Take Olive Tablets mixed with olive oil and have no trouble with your bowels or stomach. "Every little Olive Tablet has a movement all its own," 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Co., Columbus, Ohio.

The Duty of Art. Every gay, every bright word, or picture, like every pleasant air of music, is a piece of pleasure set afloat; the reader catches it, and if he is healthy, goes on his way rejoicing, and it is the business of art so to send him as often as possible.—R. L. Stevenson.

NEWTON GIRL

Pale, Run Down, Anemic.—Restored to Health by Vinol.

Miss Katherine Burns of Newton, Mass., says: About six months ago I was in a run-down condition and my blood was very poor. I had taken several medicines prescribed by physicians, but they seemed to do me no good. Finally Vinol was recommended, and from the first bottle I noticed a great improvement. I have taken six bottles and I feel strong and as well as ever.—Katherine Burns. Vinol is the greatest body builder and strength creator we know of—the curative elements of the cod's liver, aided by the blood-making, strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol, restore the lacking ingredients to blood, and the result is health, strength and vigor.

If you need building up try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. Smith Drug Co., Janesville, Wis.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, October 23, 1872.—The city board of registry will meet again tomorrow morning and will hold a two days session to complete their work of registering voters preparatory to the general elections of Tuesday next. The books will be open each day from 8 a. m. to 9 p. m. Every voter should personally satisfy himself that his name is on the list.

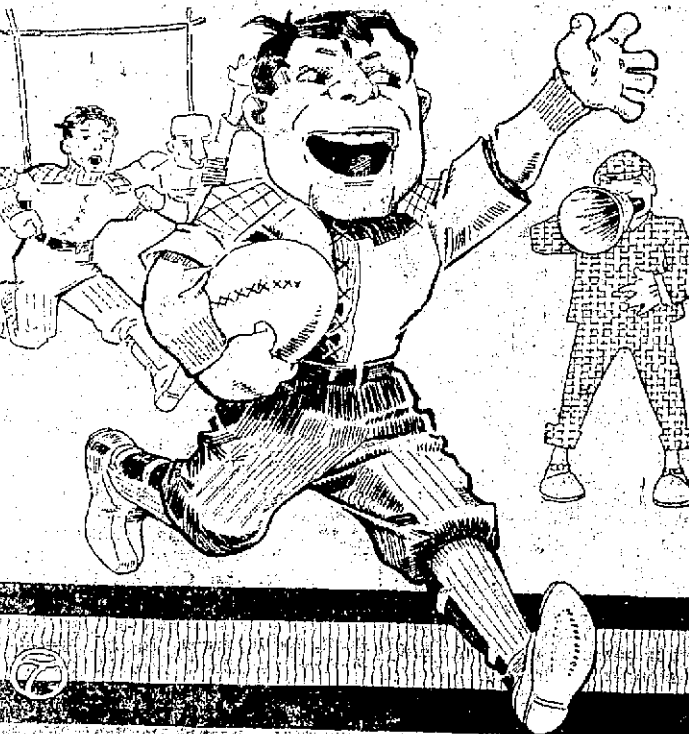

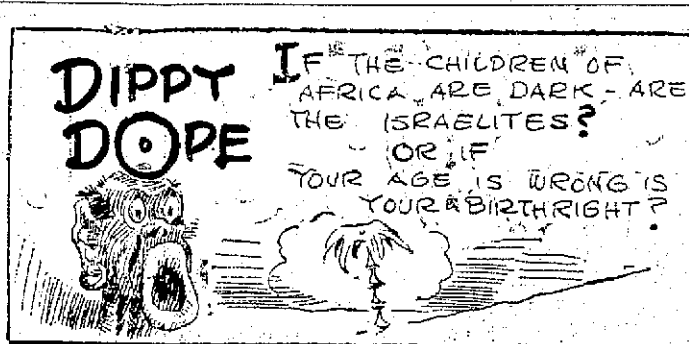

AN EXCHANGE OF COURTESIES.

In the country where the township east less than four hundred votes the Board of Registry will remain but one day.
Charles Tew has disposed of his hat, cap and gents' furnishing establishment in the Myers block to the Taylor brothers. The elegant stock of hats and caps will be closed out at the intention of the Taylor brothers to remove their millinery department from their present store to the store formerly occupied by Mr. Tew where they will conduct the furnishing and millinery business jointly. Mr. Tew goes to Chicago and as he trusts he will find as many and as true friends as he has made in Janesville. During his brief stay in our city he has proven himself worth the entire confidence of the community and his unexpected departure will cause many regrets.

The State Board of Charities and Reform were in the city on Saturday for the purpose of inspecting the Institution of the Blind. They found things in excellent shape at the establishment and went away with satisfaction at Fred Little's management. During their stay the annual election of president and vice president was held. H. H. Giles of Madison, was elected president, and W. C. Allen of Racine as vice president. Last year S. D. Hastings of Madison, was elected secretary for three years and consequently holds over.

Base Metals in Coinage.
The wear and tear of coinage is delayed by the admixture of base metals with the precious ones. In their pure state gold and silver would be too soft to stand the usage for which coins are intended. Manufacturers of brass and gunmetal are able to effect very surprising results in alloys. They will produce bright and useful substances with the most unpromising materials gathered from the old metal merchants.

UNCLE WALT The Poet Philosopher

Copyright, 1909, by

BY WALT MASON

"This time has come," the walrus said, "to talk of many things: of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax, of cabbages and kings." This happened in the good old days when walrus folk could preach, and carpenters had naught to do but ramble on the beach. It happened in the good old times when birds and beasts of prey could talk of more uplifting things than politics, all day. If we could find a walrus now that's blessed or cursed with speech, of income tax and I. and it, the tressome brutes would preach. And it would raise.

THE WALRUS the platocrats and give John D. a job, and we would all be bored to death ere it had shot its bolt. How I regret the dear old times of which the poet sings; when animals and men could talk of cabbages and kings! For nowadays we never hear of aught but politics; of orators and managers and all their threadbare tricks. You hear about them in the street, and in the grocer's store; no matter where you chance to stray, you'll meet some windy bore who throws a harpoon at the trusts; you hear the tariff lashed; even in the synagogues the same old straw is thrashed. And so I long for ancient days, and ancient wails, by jings, when Colonel Walrus talked a while of cabbages and kings.
